

Contents

List of illustrations	vi
Acknowledgements	viii
1 Introduction	1
2 Youth political participation and civil society in the Soviet Union and in contemporary Russia	22
3 Silencing disagreements – activist identities and group practices	52
4 ‘I love my country but hate the state’ – Oborona activists interpreting civil society, state and democracy	89
5 Performing opposition: political protests as social performances	123
6 The future of social movements and democracy in Russia	150
Appendix 1: Oborona’s declaration and ‘frequently asked questions’	162
Appendix 2: informants and interview questions	168
Bibliography	172
Index	190