

Contents

---

List of figures and tables	page x
Acknowledgements	xi
Introduction	1
Part I The process and practice of everyday journalism	13
1. An interactional and ethnographic approach to news media language	15
1.1 Contradictory perceptions about news media behaviors	17
1.2 The ethnographic advantage	19
1.3 Exploring news and news language from the perspective of the practitioner	23
1.4 Influences on media language and discourse	24
1.5 Characteristics and tendencies of media language	26
1.6 Conclusion: process and practice – underexplored dimensions	29
2. Craft and community: Reading the ways of journalists	30
2.1 Articulating primary values	31
2.2 The craft ethos	36
2.3 The community factor	43
2.4 Conclusion: locating and understanding news priorities	47
3. The ways reporters learn to report and editors learn to edit	49
3.1 “Ways of speaking”	50
3.2 Socialization into news culture	52
3.3 Loci of learning	61
3.4 Conclusion: the apprentice model and journalistic practice	63
Part II Conceptualizing the news	65
4. News values and their significance in text and practice	67
4.1 Determining “newsworthiness”	68
4.2 News values govern journalistic practice	72
4.3 News judgment and “instinct”	77

4.4	Similarity and variation	82
4.5	Conclusion: the role of news values	85
5.	The “story meeting”: Deciding what’s fit to print	88
5.1	What happens at a story meeting: The Oakland Tribune	90
5.2	Role of news values in story meetings	94
5.3	Other news-community values	97
5.4	Boundaries and norms of professional behavior	100
5.5	Conclusion: news priorities in relation to practice	106
6.	The interaction-based nature of journalism	110
6.1	Interaction through practice	111
6.2	The supremacy of the local	119
6.3	Loci of interaction	125
6.4	The pseudo-relationship between news media and community	128
6.5	Conclusion: identifying interaction in the journalistic context	131
Part III Constructing the story: texts and contexts		133
7.	Story design and the dictates of the “lead”	135
7.1	Principles of newswriting	136
7.2	Story design	139
7.3	The lead	151
7.4	Conclusion: the importance of craft	169
8.	“Boilerplate”: Simplifying stories, anchoring text, altering meaning	171
8.1	News discourse rules and boilerplate	172
8.2	Features of boilerplate	176
8.3	Implications of boilerplate	180
8.4	Conclusion: responsibility and “neutral” text production	185
9.	Style and standardization in news language	187
9.1	Background: language standardization	188
9.2	Language standardization in the news context	190
9.3	Journalists and language: complaints, values, and injunctions	194
9.4	Changes and innovations in news style	201
9.5	Conclusion: language awareness and journalistic identity	211
Part IV Decoding the discourse		215
10.	The impact of the news process on media language	217
10.1	Delivering the news	217
10.2	Coherence of the text	219
10.3	Linguists as “experts” in news stories	220
Conclusion and key points		230
Epilogue		235

Appendices	237
Appendix 1: Story samples	239
Appendix 2: Outline guide for the analysis of news media language	247
Appendix 3: SPJ Code of Ethics	251
Glossary of news and linguistic terms	252
References	259
Index	272