

Contents

Preface	vii
Acknowledgements	xi
Summary	xii
Introduction	1
1 How we carried out the project	4
Introduction	4
The research approach	4
2 Service user networking	8
Introduction	8
The meaning of networking	10
Barriers to networking	16
3 Service user knowledge	26
Introduction	26
Exploring service user knowledge: our aims	29
Service user knowledge: making a difference	30
The devaluing of service user knowledge	31
Problems of access and tokenism	34
The culture of health and social care organisations	35
Resources	37
Strengthening service user knowledge	39
4 Exploring diversity	49
Introduction	49
Report 1: A group of Asian disabled people	49
Report 2: A group of black mental health service users	56
Report 3: Treatment and control – competing understandings and knowledge	65
5 Service user networking, knowledge and involvement: ways ahead	75
Strengthening service user networking	76
Promoting meaningful service user involvement	81
References	84
Appendix 1: Terminology – the language we use	86
Appendix 2: Initial questionnaire	88
Appendix 3: Analysis of Shaping Our Lives initial questionnaires	92