

Contents

Notes on contributors	vii
Series editors' introduction	x
Part One: Lead essay
Reclaiming social work ethics: challenging the new public management	1
Sarah Banks
Part Two: Responses
A roadmap for social work ethics: reflections and a proposal	25
Frederic G. Reamer
Contextualising the 'ethics boom'	31
Stephen Cowden
Reframing social work ethics through a political ethic of care and social justice lens	37
Vivienne Bozalek
'Managerialism': challenging the new orthodoxy	45
Chris Beckett
Ethical practice in an unethical environment	51
Michael Reisch
Social work ethics and social justice: the growing gap	57
Fumihito Ito
Working in the spaces between care and control	63
Merlinda Weinberg
A Marxist perspective	71
Paul Blackledge

Part Three: Concluding remarks

Reflections on the responses to 'Reclaiming social work ethics'	77
Sarah Banks
References	85