

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	1
Why the new interest in trust?	1
Aims and the structure of the book	8
1 Defining Trust	12
What is trust?	12
Trust – a prerequisite of order?	26
2 Classical Sociology and the Search for Order	33
Utilitarian theory and Spencer's competitive solidarity	33
Toennies' communal ethic	38
Durkheim's organic solidarity	42
Simmel's constitutive forms of relationship – exchange and reciprocity	49
Weber's conflation of communal and associative relationships	54
Types of order and trust	60
3 Functions of Trust	65
The integrative function of trust – Talcott Parsons	65
Reduction of complexity – trust in Niklas Luhmann's writing	73
Trust as a lubricant of cooperation – the rational choice approach	77

	Trust and modernity: Giddens' approach	88
	How to study trust	95
4	Trust as Habitus	102
	Habits and rules of social interactions: predictability	102
	Reputation and rules of social distancing: reliability	120
	Rules of remembrance: legibility	139
5	Trust as Passion	157
	Trust and family	157
	Trust and friendship	176
	Trust and society	192
6	Trust as Policy	208
	Trust and solidarity	208
	Trust and toleration	228
	Trust and legitimacy	245
	Bibliography	270
	Index	288