PART I

STUDIES TOWARD THE FOUNDATION OF THE HUMAN SCIENCES

Translated by Rudolf A. Makkreel and John Scanlon

FIRST STUDY

The Psychic Structural Nexus	23
------------------------------	----

I. Task, Method, and Outline of the Foundation	24
1. The Task	24
2. The Task of the Theory of Knowledge	27
3. The Foundational Method Used Here	28
4. Point of Departure for a Description of the Processes     in which Knowledge Originates	29
5. The Place of this Description in the System of     the Foundation	32
II. Descriptive Preliminary Concepts	34
1. Psychic Structure	34
2. The Apprehension of Psychic Structure	38
3. Structural Units	40
4. The Structural Nexus	42
5. The Kinds of Structural Relation	43

SECOND STUDY

The Structural Nexus of Knowledge	45
-----------------------------------	----

I. Objective Apprehension	45
1. Delimitation of Objective Apprehension	45
2. The Relation between Lived Experience and     Psychic Object	46
3. The Relation between Intuition and Sensory Objects	54
4. The Structure of the Lived Experiences of Apprehension	57
5. Lived Experiences of Apprehension as Structural Unities     and Their Inner Relations to One Another	57

II. Objective Having	66
1. Feeling	66
1. Delimiting Lived Experiences of Feeling	67
2. The General Nature of the Attitude in the Lived Experience of Feeling	69
3. The Structural Unity of the Lived Experience of Feeling	71
4. Structural Relations between Feelings	75
5. The System of the Relations between Feelings as Delimited from the Systems of Objective Apprehension and of Willing	77
Supplement: Completion of the Inner Teleology of the Structural Nexus of Feelings in Objective Formations	79
2. Willing	82
First Fragment	82
1. The Scope of Its Lived Experiences	82
2. Analysis of Willing	84
Second Fragment	87
1. The Foundation of Willing in Objective Apprehension and in Feeling	87
2. Delimiting Willing from Feeling	87
3. The Structural Unity of the Volitional Attitude	89
4. The Levels of Structural Unity in Lived Experience and the Relations between Lived Experiences	89
5. The System of Lived Experiences in the Volitional Attitude	90
 THIRD STUDY
The Delimitation of the Human Sciences (Third Draft)	91

PART II
THE FORMATION OF THE HISTORICAL WORLD IN THE HUMAN SCIENCES

Translated by Rudolf A. Makkreel and John Scanlon

I. Delimitation of the Human Sciences	101
II. Different Modes of Formation in the Natural Sciences and in the Human Sciences	109
Historical Orientation	109
III. General Theses about the System of the Human Sciences	142
Section One: Objective Apprehension	143
Section Two: The Structure of the Human Sciences	152
Chapter I: Life and the Human Sciences	152
Chapter II: The Procedural Modes in Which the World of the Human Spirit Is Given	160

Chapter III: The Objectifications of Life	168
Chapter IV: The World of Human Spirit as a Productive Nexus	174

PART III

PLAN FOR THE CONTINUATION OF THE FORMATION OF THE
HISTORICAL WORLD IN THE HUMAN SCIENCES
Translated by Rudolf A. Makkreel and William H. Oman

Drafts for a Critique of Historical Reason	213
Section One: Lived Experience, Expression, and Understanding	213
I. Lived Experience and Autobiography	213
1. The Task of a Critique of Historical Reason	213
2. Reflexive Awareness, Reality: Time	214
3. The Life-Nexus	218
4. Autobiography	221
Supplement to 3: The Life-Nexus	223
II. The Understanding of Other Persons and Their Manifestations of Life	226
1. Manifestations of Life	226
2. Elementary Forms of Understanding	228
3. Objective Spirit and Elementary Understanding	229
4. The Higher Forms of Understanding	231
5. Transposition, Re-Creating and Re-Experiencing	234
6. Exegesis or Interpretation	237
Addenda	241
1. Musical Understanding	241
2. Lived Experience and Understanding	245
3. Methods of Understanding	245
4. The Limits of Understanding	246
III. The Categories of Life	248
Life	248
Lived Experience	249
Duration Apprehended in Understanding	251
Meaning	252
Meaning and Structure	256
Meaning, Significance, Value	258
Values	260
Whole and Parts	263
Development, Essence, and Other Categories	263
IV. Biography	265
1. The Scientific Character of Biography	265
2. Biography as a Work of Art	267

Section Two: Conceptual Cognition of the Nexus of Universal History	271
Introduction	271
1. History	271
2. The New Task	272
A First Projection of a Continuation of the Formation of the Historical World in the Human Sciences	273
1. Fundamental Relationship: The Structure of Historical Formations	273
2. The Structure of Every Historical Nexus or System	281
3. The Subjects of Historical Assertions	283
4. Race, People, etc. as Concrete-Historical Subjects	283
5. Cultural Systems	283
