

Contents

Table of Cases	xv
Table of Instruments	xxiii
List of Abbreviations	xxix
I. Introduction	1
1. The Imperfect Nature of Cultural Heritage Law	1
2. Improving Dispute Settlement in the Cultural Heritage Realm	3
3. The Scope of the Analysis	4
4. Book Structure	6
 II. Foundational Issues	 9
A. Understanding Cultural Heritage	9
1. Introduction	9
2. In search of a definition of cultural property	11
3. From cultural property to cultural heritage	14
4. The common heritage of humankind	17
5. From cultural heritage to cultural rights	20
B. Defining the Sources and Typology of Cultural Heritage Disputes	33
1. Introduction	33
2. What is an 'international dispute'?	33
3. The actors at stake in the cultural heritage realm	36
 III. Examining the Existing Legal Regime	 65
A. The Legal Framework	65
1. Introduction	65
2. Domestic legislation	65
3. The private international law dimension of dispute settlement	84
4. Dispute settlement through cultural heritage instruments	98
5. The law of State immunity	121
6. State responsibility and cultural heritage disputes	130
B. The Available Means of Dispute Settlement	134
1. Introduction	134
2. The settlement of cultural heritage disputes exemplified: the Altmann case	135
3. Adjudication through domestic courts	138
4. International judicial settlement mechanisms: an overview	146
5. Alternatives to judicial settlement	167

C. A Step Backwards: Strategies for Dispute Avoidance	185
1. Introduction	185
2. Dispute avoidance through negotiation	186
3. Monitoring mechanisms	197
4. An appraisal	199
IV. Dispute Settlement in the Cultural Heritage Realm: Opting for Radical Reforms or for Enhancing Existing Dispute Settlement Means?	200
Introduction: Cultural Heritage Dispute Settlement against the Background of Fragmentation and Proliferation	200
A. The Establishment of an International Cultural Heritage Court	204
1. Introduction	204
2. Is an international cultural heritage court desirable and necessary?	205
3. Is there a reasonable chance of creating a new international court?	208
4. An appraisal	218
B. The Settlement of Cultural Heritage Disputes through Cross-Fertilization	218
1. Introduction	218
2. Cross-fertilization among adjudicators: what it is and where it comes from	219
3. Forms and methods of cross-fertilization	221
4. The actual affirmation of cross-fertilization	223
5. Cross-fertilization: a realistic assessment	231
6. The role of judges: is cross-fertilization a proper judicial function?	238
V. Cross-Fertilization and Common Rules of Adjudication in the Service of Cultural Heritage: Toward a New Taxonomy?	244
Opting for Cross-Fertilization and Common Rules of Adjudication: The Emergence of a New Lex Specialis	244
A. The Common Rules of Adjudication Corresponding to General Principles of International Law	249
1. Introduction	249
2. The obligation to protect cultural objects in the event of armed conflict	250
3. The prohibition on removing cultural objects in the event of armed conflict and the corresponding obligation of restitution	258
B. The Common Rules of Adjudication Corresponding to Rules in Force or in Formation	274
1. Introduction	274
2. The obligation to return cultural objects wrongfully removed in peacetime	274
3. The common rules of adjudication on the restitution and protection of cultural heritage in peacetime	284

Contents	xiii
C. Operationalizing the Common Rules of Adjudication	292
1. Two modest proposals	292
2. The International Association of Refugee Law Judges: a paradigm for UNESCO?	294
3. Multi-level cooperation in the resolution of cultural heritage disputes	296
VI. Conclusions	305
Bibliography	313
Index	339