

CONTENTS

Preface, by Bernth Lindfors	vii
Author's Foreword	xi
PART ONE: AFRICA'S VERBAL ART IN THE GLOBAL POLYSYSTEM	1
Chapter 1: Language and Literature in the "Western" Tradition	3
Chapter 2: Defining English Literature	27
Chapter 3: Commonwealth Literature and the Vernaculars	37
PART TWO: LITERARY HISTORY IN PLURILINGUAL AFRICA	45
Chapter 4: Fifteen Centuries of Creative Writing in Black Africa	47
Chapter 5: Linguistics and the Emergence of Vernacular Writing	61
Chapter 6: New frontier for Comparative Literature: Africa	71
PART THREE: NATIONAL LITERATURE: THREE CASE STUDIES	79
Chapter 7: Ghana	81
Chapter 8: East Africa	89
Chapter 9: South Africa	105
PART FOUR: DIALECTICS OF TRADITION AND INNOVATION	121
Chapter 10: Preservation of Tradition in African Writing	123
Chapter 11: Literary Tradition and Literary Change	129
Chapter 12: Literature Emergent : The Euro-African Experience	137
CONCLUSION	157
Chapter 13: Is Anything Wrong with African Literary Studies?	159