

CONTENTS

About the Author	x
Acknowledgements	xi
1 AGE STUDIES: WHAT IS IT AND WHY DO WE NEED IT?	1
The age system	1
Configuring the Hag	5
Age studies, age ideology and social theory: the scope of this book	18
Organization of the book: a guide for readers	22
Chapter summary	23
Further questions	24
Talking point	24
Key texts	24
2 CLASS STRATIFICATION AND AGE	26
Background	26
Classical theories of class	27
Class in late modernity	28
Late modernity: how inequalities work through ages and stages	28
Class, gender and age	32
Conclusion	43
Chapter summary	44
Further questions	44
Talking point	44
Key texts	45
Further resources	45
3 GENDER STUDIES AS A PARADIGM FOR AGE STUDIES	47
Background: the old body as outside culture	47
Concepts and methods from the feminist toolbox	48
From deconstructing gender to the end of gender	57
Linking of the gender regime and the age regime	59

Conclusion	62
Chapter summary	63
Further questions	64
Talking point	64
Key texts	65
Further resources	65

4 CONSTRUCTING AND DECONSTRUCTING AGES AND STAGES OF THE LIFE COURSE	66
Background: ordering by age	66
Genealogy of the life course	67
Medieval to modern: replacing wheels with staircases	68
The social construction of childhood	70
Construction of the category of youth: the best time of one's life?	75
Constructing adulthood: normalization and problematization	78
From 'old' age to the 'third' and 'fourth' ages: the changing construction of later life	80
Relaxation of age norms and the blurring of boundaries between ages	82
Conclusion	84
Chapter summary	86
Further questions	86
Talking point	87
Key texts	87
Further resources	88
5 IDENTITY AND AGE	89
Background: the dread of old age as a logic of theoretical models	89
The enterprising self: a master identity for all ages	91
The successful self through the life course	92
'Can-do' youth	93
Successful ageing	96
Success, choice and identity: the limits of consumerism	99
Narrating the self through time: building age and temporality into theories of (adult) identity	101
Conclusion	107
Chapter summary	108
Further questions	108
Talking point	109
Key texts	109

6 AGE AND EMBODIMENT	111
Background: constructing the rational body	111
Childish bodies: unique characteristics?	112
Men and women in the making	113
Class and gender hierarchies	116
Menarche, menstruation and the stigmatizing of female bodies	118
Meaning of the menopause	119
Embodying older age	120
Conclusion	124
Chapter summary	128
Further questions	129
Talking point	129
Key texts	130
7 SEXUALITY THROUGH THE LIFE COURSE	131
Background: sexuality as a regulative device	131
Sexuality and childhood: the formation of the gender regime	132
Initiation into the heterosexual regime: the 'male-in-the-head'	135
Menopause: the 'Hag-in-the-head'?	142
Sexual relationships in later life	144
Conclusion	146
Chapter summary	149
Further questions	150
Talking point	150
Further reading	150
Further resources	150
8 HEALTH, ILLNESS AND NORMALITY THROUGH THE LIFE COURSE	152
Background: woman's soul as prison of her body	152
Girls' embodiment and gender pain	153
The Girl: an excess of enterprise	156
'Menopause': suffering (and) the end of femininity	160
The science of ageing: what causes our bodies to age?	164
The frail older body: identifying (and preventing) the fourth age	165
Conclusion	171
Chapter summary	172
Further questions	172
Talking point	172
Key texts	173
Further resources	173

9 REPRESENTING AGES AND STAGES	175
Background	175
Conceptual and methodological approaches to representation	176
Representations of ages and stages	180
(In) conclusion: age as drag	193
Chapter summary	198
Further questions	198
Talking point	199
Key texts	199
Further resources	199
10 AGES AND GENERATIONS IN INTERACTION	201
Background	201
Generations as a socio-structural analytic device	202
Generations in context: the life course model	207
Family forms, public principles and the structuring of generational conflict	211
‘Good mothers’ and the development of children over the life course	212
Care-giving throughout the life course	217
Conclusion	220
Chapter summary	221
Further questions	221
Talking point	222
Key texts	222
Further resources	222
11 TELLING OUR OWN STORIES: DEVELOPING AGE CONSCIOUSNESS AND AUTHENTIC AGE IDENTITIES	224
Background: age ideology, my grandmother and I	224
What is age consciousness?	226
Experience and the standpoint of age(s)	228
Telling our own stories	230
Tools and techniques for developing age consciousness	232
Chapter summary	240
Further questions	240
Talking point	240
Further reading	241
Further resources	241

12 CONCLUDING THOUGHTS	242
Overview of arguments covered in the chapters of the book	242
Re-imagining the meaning of old age	244
Re-imagined ages and stages	247
‘The last of life, for which the first was made’	252
References	257
Index	281