

Contents

Introduction	1
1. Constitutional Paradigms and Judicial Authority	11
A. Previous Literature	12
B. Concepts of Law	14
I. Reactive law	15
II. Activist law	17
1. Individual rights	18
a) Horizontal application	19
b) Justiciable state duties	19
2. Focus on substance and flexibility	19
III. Examples	20
1. Reactive constitutional regimes: the United States	20
2. Activist constitutional regimes: South Africa	22
C. Models of Authority	26
I. Hierarchical authority	27
1. Professionalism	27
2. Division of tasks and hierarchy	27
3. Technicality and de-personalization	27
4. The legal system	27
5. Constitutional review in hierarchical systems	28
II. Coordinate authority	29
1. Public and laymen influence	29
2. Power-sharing and collaboration	29
3. Personalization and common-sense pragmatism	29
4. Law in the coordinate state	29
5. Constitutional review under the coordinate paradigm	30
III. Examples	31
1. Hierarchical systems of authority: Japan	31
2. Coordinate systems of authority: the United States	35
D. A good match?	39
E. Looking Forward	40

2. Transitions and Transformations: towards Activist Constitutionalism	41
A. Foundations	44
B. Transitions	48
I. Drafting the Basic Law	48
II. First steps	53
C. Transformations	57
D. Conclusion	66
3. Hierarchical Authority in German Constitutional Law: the Constitutional Court between Law and Politics	69
A. Beginnings	71
B. Recovering the Rechtsstaat	76
C. The 1970s—Challenging Hierarchical Authority	86
D. Consolidation	90
E. Conclusion	94
4. Value Formalism	97
A. Changes and Challenges	97
B. The Transformative Paradigm	100
I. Access to the Court	100
II. Value jurisprudence	102
1. The protective function of rights ( Schutzpflichten )	104
2. Drittwirkung	107
III. Focus on substantive law	108
C. The Challenge of Hierarchical Authority	109
I. Institutional self-presentation and selection of judges	109
II. Value Formalism	111
1. Rhetoric and style	111
2. Formalization: the role of doctrine	113
III. Decontextualization and judicial maximalism	114
IV. Proportionality analysis	117
V. Appearances and reality	121
D. Conclusion	123
5. Judicial Self-reflection and Institutional Awareness	125
A. A Political Question Doctrine?	127
B. Institutional Awareness	128
I. Organizational and institutional conflicts	130
1. Considering state practice	130

2. Foreign policy discretion	131
a) The Basic Treaty decision	131
b) Dealing with the European financial crisis	134
II. Rights' review	136
1. Historical development	141
a) Judicial scrutiny for predictions of future factual developments	141
b) The turn to procedure	144
III. The Court's nature as a court	148
C. Conclusion	148
 6. We the Lawyers—Dialogue and Constitutional Patriotism	 151
A. Strategy and Popular Support	151
B. Institutional Support and Political Elites	157
C. Court Criticism and Legislative Re-enactments	162
D. Constitutional Change and the People	165
E. Constitutional Patriotism Revisited	169
F. Conclusion	174
 Conclusion	 175
A. Normative Questions	177
I. Activist constitutionalism	177
II. Coordinate authority	180
1. Consistency and predictability	182
2. Minority protection	183
3. The stability argument	184
4. Rationalization	186
5. Conclusion	187
B. Prospects for German Constitutionalism	187
C. Postscript	191
 Bibliography	 193
Index	209