

Contents

1. Introduction	8
2. Conceptual Framework	10
2.1 Development goals	10
2.2 Quality of Life	12
2.2.1 GDP, Economic Well-Being, and Human Well-Being	12
2.2.2 Quality of life concepts	14
2.2.3 Sen's concept of quality of life	14
2.3 Various forms of capital	15
2.3.1 Concept of Capital	15
2.3.2 Human Capital	17
2.3.3 Social Capital	27
2.3.4 Cultural Capital	42
2.4 Institutions	44
2.4.1 Institution in sociology and economics	44
2.4.2 Hollingsworth's multiple levels of Institutional analysis	45
2.4.3 From institutional analysis to the concept of "regulators"	49
2.5 Integrated development framework	49
2.5.1 Integrated development schema	49
2.5.2 Towards integrated development model	50
3. Knowledge-Driven Society	52
3.1 The idea of post-industrial transformation	52
3.2 Brief history of knowledge society concept	53
3.3 The Concept's Meanings Today	55
3.4 Defining knowledge society	56
3.5 Knowledge: opening the black-box	59
3.5.1 Knowledge Dimensions	59
3.5.2 Composite knowledge taxonomy	62
3.5.3 Which type of knowledge?	64

3.6	Main features of knowledge-driven society	65
3.6.1	Changes in technology	65
3.6.2	Changes in economy	65
3.6.3	Changes in labor force structure	66
3.6.4	Changes in organizations and management	67
3.6.5	Other implications	68
3.7	Changes in knowledge processes	69
3.7.1	Basic Knowledge Processes	69
3.7.2	Changes in reflection of knowledge processes – the case of innovation	71
3.8	Knowledge culture as a knowledge society regulator	76
4.	Czech Republic on the Road to Knowledge-Driven Society	79
4.1	Analysis of knowledge-driven development in the Czech Republic	79
4.1.1	Complex Methodologies of knowledge-driven development	79
4.1.2	Institutional Framework	82
4.1.3	Education and Human Capital	83
4.1.4	Social capital	87
4.1.5	Innovation System	89
4.2	Measures to overcome the barriers – fostering knowledge processes	92
5.	Public Policy for Knowledge-Driven Development	94
5.1	Changing visions	94
5.2	Public policy rules for knowledge-driven development	95
	Rule #1: Take intrinsic motivation as a starting point	95
	Rule #2: Think in a broad context	96
	Rule #3: Be dynamic in your thinking	96
	Rule #4: Prefer indirect measures and decentralize	97
	Rule #5: Ensure equal distribution of knowledge processes	97
5.3	Special notes for the Czech public policy makers	98
5.4	Final remarks and inspirations for further research	99
	Footnotes	102
	Literature	106
	Resumé	120