

The Companion to Development Studies is designed as an essential one-stop reference for anyone with an interest in development studies. Applauded for its comprehensiveness by students and development practitioners ...

"The book is an important reference source for anyone with an interest in development studies."

The Educational Book Review

"The Companion should definitely be considered 'required reading' for development practitioners ... there can be no doubt that there will be many editions to come and that this ... excellent publication will convert into a classic reference."

Journal of Development Studies

"The sheer breadth of subject matter brought together by the editors of The Companion in a single volume is an achievement ... The Companion is a very welcome arrival."

The Times Higher Education Supplement

The editors of the second edition have brought together an impressive range of international experts in the field to present an up-to-date interdisciplinary and comprehensive overview of contemporary development studies.

With 115 chapters dealing with both theory and practice, The Companion is an accessible guide for students and a direct route into the key issues of development studies. Divided into ten sections including theories and strategies of development, gender, globalization, the political economy of violence and insecurity, environment and development, and governance and development, this timely new text provides easy-to-use summaries of all the major issues encountered in this fast-changing field.

Key Features

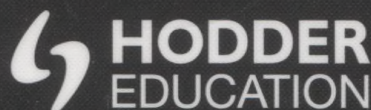

- Brings together 115 concise, authoritative overviews of the most important issues in the field
- Wide-ranging coverage of subjects from globalization to refugees, from gender issues to development theory
- Fully-referenced throughout and includes up-to-the-minute guides to further reading and useful websites

Essential for students of development studies at all levels, from undergraduate to postgraduate and beyond, in departments of development studies, geography, politics, international relations, sociology, anthropology and economics.

Vandana Desai is Senior Lecturer in Development Geography at Royal Holloway, University of London

Rob Potter is Professor of Human Geography at the University of Reading and Editor-in-Chief of the journal Progress in Development Studies
