

Contents

Figure 1.1	Married Men Ages Twenty to Forty-Nine, by Their Lower Age Eighteen, Who Worked in Manufacturing	ix
	List of Figures	ix
	About the Author	xi
	Acknowledgments	xiii
Chapter 1	Introduction	1
Chapter 2	The Emergence of the Working-Class Family: 1800–1899	24
Chapter 3	Good Times and Hard Times: 1900–1945	60
Chapter 4	The Peak Years, 1945–1975	90
Chapter 5	The Fall of the Working-Class Family: 1975–2010	121
Chapter 6	The Would-Be Working Class Today With the collaboration of Timothy Nelson	148
Chapter 7	What Is to Be Done?	176
	Notes	197
	References	225
	Index	245
Figure 5.1	Changes in Real Hourly Earnings, by Education, 1979–2007	126
Figure 5.2	Children Living with an Unmarried Mother, by the Mother's Education, 1980–2010	136
Figure 6.1	Employed Men Ages Twenty-Five to Forty-Four Who Rated "Working Hours Are Short, Lots of Free Time," as Most Important or Second Most Important of Five Job Characteristics	176