

Contents

Acknowledgements	XIII
Preface: The perplexities of legal effectiveness
Marc Galanter (University of Wisconsin, London School of Economics)	XV
Introduction: The social and symbolic working of legal rules
Nicolle Zeegers (University of Groningen), Willem Witteveen and Bart van Klink (Tilburg University)	1
1 An introduction in eight propositions to the social working approach to legislation
John Griffiths (University of Groningen)	7
References	16
2 Turning to communication in the study of legislation
Willem J. Witteveen (Tilburg University)	17
The regulatory crisis and the communicative turn	17
Communication as a problem for legislation and regulation	21
Communication as a problem for democracy and the rule of law	22
From instrumentalism to interactionism	24
Reflexive legislative strategy	27
Symbolic and communicative legislation	30
Models of communication in connection with legislative strategies	32
Soft law and symbolic effects	34
The dialogue continues	37

The debate between the communicative approach and the social working approach	38
References	42
3 Rules against domestic violence in the light of the social working and communicative approaches to legal rules
Nicolle Zeegers (University of Groningen) and Katinka Lünemann (Verwey-Jonker Instituut, Utrecht)	45
Introduction	45
The two approaches and rules against domestic violence	46
Addressees and behaviour	47
The meaning of rules: Open or fixed?	48
The role of the legislator	49
The autonomy of the shop floor	50
In summary	50
Rules against domestic violence and accompanying policy measures	54
Beating one's wife, husband, parent or child (Article 304 of the Code of Criminal Procedure)	55
Stalking (Article 285(b) of the Code of Criminal Procedure)	58
The effects of the two rules	60
Conclusion	60
References	62
4 Classifying physician-negotiated death: A matter of perspective
Donald van Tol (University of Groningen)	65
Introduction	65
Why classification matters	66
Which lines to draw	68
The cognitive function of (communicative) legislation	73
Does it work?	77
Some results of an empirical survey	78
Conclusion	84
References	86
5 Symbols work
Rob Schwitters (University of Groningen)	89
Introduction	89
The communicative approach and legitimization through procedure	91

Symbolic effects	91
The rule of law versus the communicative approach	92
Symbolic effects and the social working of law	97
The ambiguous position of symbolic effects	97
Legitimation through persuasiveness of content	98
Indirect effects versus direct effects	99
Non-compliance and indirect effects	101
The social working approach and procedural legitimacy	103
Top-down versus bottom-up	105
Conclusion	109
References	110
 6 An effective-historical view on the symbolic working of law
Bart van Klink (Tilburg University)	113
Some preceding remarks: 'It is not about right or wrong. It is about power.'	113
The correspondence theory and its enemies	123
The symbolic working of law	128
The symbolic working of law revised	130
Gadamer's notion of effective-history	130
Effective-history and the symbolic working of law	134
Conceptual consequences	139
The correspondence theory criticized	139
Practical implications	142
References	144
 7 Do laws have symbolic effects?
John Griffiths (University of Groningen)	147
Introduction	147
'Communicative' legislation	150
What might the expression 'symbolic effects' refer to?	150
Mental (subjective) 'effects'	154
Conclusion	160
References	160
 8 The social making and social working of legislation
Marc Hertogh (Tilburg University)	163
The remarkable stubbornness of King Rex	163

Legislation as text	165
The position of the legislator	165
Legislation in social working theory	166
Legislation and the case of euthanasia	168
The Dutch Consumer Credit Act 1992	168
Preparations in the coordination committee	169
Interest ceiling for mail-order credit	170
Credit regulations for commercial banks	172
Discussion	173
Legislation as process	173
Conclusion: The shop floor of legislation	179
References	180
 9 Communicative legislation: Can we trust certified management systems as tools for the interpretation and enforcement of environmental laws?
Rob van Gestel and Guido Evers (Tilburg University)	183
Introduction	183
The basics of communicative legislation	186
The case study	187
Is our case an example of communicative legislation?	190
The interpretive community	193
What is the purpose of communication in environmental legislation?	196
A morality of aspiration calls for communicative elements in legislation	198
References	200
 10 Do legal rules based on self-regulation affect the behaviour of doctors?
The case of the Dutch legislation on medical treatment contracts
Bärbel Dorbeck-Jung and Mirjan van Heffen-Oude Vrielink (University of Twente)	203
Introduction	203
Interaction between legislation and self-regulation in the Dutch Medical Treatment Contracts Act	205
Characteristics of the SASF	208
The meaning of rules in professionals' learning processes	210
Learning rules	210
Learning processes and the use of rules	212
The working of rules regarding medical treatment contracts	216
Do doctors know the rules of the Medical Treatment Contracts Act?	217
Do doctors follow the rules regarding keeping medical records?	218

Do doctors follow the rules regarding the communication of medical data to third parties?	220
Conclusions	221
References	223
11 The mass media and the working of legislation
Petra Jonkers (Tilburg University)	225
Introduction	225
Approaches in communication studies concerning the influence of mass media	227
The media and the implementation of the Wbeaa	234
Hypotheses concerning the influence of the media on compliance with the law	238
Final considerations	240
References	243
12 The irony of a symbolic crusade: The debate on opening up civil marriage to same-sex couples
Wibren van der Burg (Tilburg University)	245
Introduction	245
An interactionist approach to change	248
Descriptive claims	249
Normative claims	251
Legislation	252
Some explanatory notes	254
Rules	254
The symbolic working of legislation	256
Case study: The road to opening up civil marriage	258
The general background	259
Article 1 of the Dutch Constitution	261
The debate on the Equal Treatment Act	262
Opening up civil marriage	266
Evaluation	270
References	274
13 Communicative law: A quest for consensus
Jellienke Stamhuis (University of Groningen)	277
Introduction	277

The communicative theory 'reconstructed': Three assumptions	278
The role of purpose	279
Communicative law and responsive law	280
The role of purpose in the communicative law approach	281
Two questions concerning consensus	283
The case of the Dutch Works Councils Act	286
The first Act	287
The second Act	289
The third Act	291
The Dutch Works Councils Act: Conclusion	292
Instrumentalism	294
References	296
 14 Some objections to an aspirational system of law
Pauline Westerman (University of Groningen and Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam)	299
Two perspectives	299
Direct and indirect effects	301
The concretisation of aims	303
Obligations	305
Rewards	308
Aspirational norms and positive rules	312
Conclusion	314
References	315
 15 Interpretive communities and symbolic effects
Willem Witteveen (Tilburg University)	317
The uncertain status of interpretive communities	317
Two models of interpretive communities	322
The third model	329
The reality of interpretive communities	332
Towards the reduction of moral distance	336
References	337
 16 Legal effects and moral meanings: A comment on recent debates on approaches to legislation
Roger Cotterrell (Queen Mary and Westfield College, University of London)	339
Section 1	340

Section 2	344
Section 3	346
Section 4	349
Section 5	352
Section 6	355
References	357
 Index	 359