

CONTENTS

---

List of Tables	xi
Acknowledgments	xiii

Introduction	1
I. The Substance of Transformation	5
II. The Rhetoric of Transformation	6
III. The Politics of Transformation	8
IV. Organization of the Book	12

PART ONE Treaty Supremacy at the Founding

1. The Origins of Treaty Supremacy: 1776–1787	17
I. Treaty Violations under the Articles of Confederation	17
II. Rutgers v. Waddington	19
III. John Jay's Report to Congress	21
IV. The Constitutional Convention	23
V. The Constitution's Text	25
2. State Ratification Debates	29
I. The Treaty Power, Navigation Rights, and the Mississippi River	30
II. Treaty Supremacy and State Law	32
III. The House of Representatives and Treaty Implementation	40
3. Treaty Supremacy in the 1790s	47
I. Ware v. Hylton	48
II. The Jay Treaty Debates	51

PART TWO Treaty Supremacy from 1800 to 1945

4. Foster v. Neilson	67
I. The First Two Holdings in Foster	68
II. Treaty Supremacy in Foster	72
III. Historical Context	73
IV. The Self-Execution Issue in Foster	76

5. Treaties and State Law	85
I. U.S. Supreme Court Cases Involving Conflicts between Treaties and State Law	85
II. State Court Cases Involving Conflicts between Treaties and State Law	90
III. Congressional Deliberations about Treaties and Federalism	95
IV. Executive Branch Materials	101
6. Self-Execution in the Political Branches	107
I. Congressional Debates about Self-Execution	108
II. Executive Branch Practice: NSE Clauses in Treaties	114
III. Attorney General Opinions	123
7. Self-Execution in the Federal Courts	129
I. Supreme Court Cases That Use the Term “Self-Executing”	130
II. Six Landmark Cases on Self-Execution	132
III. Supreme Court Cases That Cite Foster , Head Money , or Both	140
IV. Federal Appellate Cases Related to Self-Execution	145
V. The Problem of Overlapping Jurisdiction	149
8. Seeds of Change	153
I. Edwin Dickinson and the Liquor Treaties	154
II. The Rise of Executive Discretion in Foreign Affairs	162
III. Is the Intent Doctrine Constitutional?	166
IV. Preemption Doctrine, Self-Execution, and Treaty Supremacy	169
PART THREE The Human Rights Revolution
9. Human Rights Activism in the United States: 1946–1948	181
I. The Advent of Modern International Human Rights Law	181
II. International Human Rights and U.S. Diplomacy	183
III. International Human Rights Activism: Petitioning the United Nations	185
IV. Domestic Human Rights Litigation	187
V. The Truman Administration Charts a Middle Path	191
VI. The Courts and Human Rights	195
VII. Conservative Reaction: The American Bar Association	198
10. The Nationalists Strike Back: 1949–1951	201
I. The U.N. Commission on Human Rights	202
II. The Genocide Convention	204
III. State Court Litigation: The Fujii Case	208
IV. Scholarly Commentary on Fujii	213
V. Early Steps toward a Constitutional Amendment	219
VI. Major Civil Rights Cases Decided in June 1950	225

11. Fujii, Brown, and Bricker: 1952–1954	231
I. The Fujii Case in the California Supreme Court	231
II. The Politics of the Fujii Decision	235
III. Brown and Bolling	240
IV. The Bricker Amendment	248
12. Business as Usual in the Courts: 1946–1965	257
I. U.S. Supreme Court Decisions in Treaty Cases	258
II. Treaty Supremacy Cases in State Courts	260
III. Self-Execution Cases in Lower Federal Courts	263
13. The American Law Institute and the Restatement of Foreign Relations Law	267
I. The Principal Actors	268
II. Early Work on the Restatement	271
III. Drafting the Treaty Rules	273
IV. Why Did the ALI Endorse an Optional Treaty Supremacy Rule?	283
V. The Aftermath of the Second Restatement	284
 PART FOUR Treaty Supremacy and Constitutional Change
14. Treaty Supremacy in the Twenty-First Century	295
I. Three New Versions of NSE Doctrine	296
II. A Defense of the Fujii Doctrine	299
III. Two Views of Optional Supremacy	303
IV. Political Branch Practice and NSE Declarations	306
V. Medellín v. Texas	310
VI. The NPE Doctrine	316
15. Invisible Constitutional Change	319
I. Comparing Bricker to the ERA	320
II. What Makes Constitutional Change Invisible?	324
III. Implications for Constitutional Theory	326
List of Abbreviations Used in Endnotes	331
Endnotes	333
Bibliography	423
Index	439