LC CIP
0 028 885 976 0

"Dalacoura's informed discussion of the trajectories of groups like the Armed Islamic Group and Gamaa Islamiyya, which led bloody insurrections in Algeria and Egypt, and those like Egypt's Muslim Brotherhood and Turkey's Justice and Development Party, which contest power nonviolently, makes the case for counterterrorism policies that appreciate the dynamic range of Islamist movements and promote democracy without claiming that political pluralism is the decisive antidote to armed violence that targets civilians."

– Joe Stork, Deputy Director, Middle East and North Africa division, Human Rights Watch

"In this challenging book, Katerina Dalacoura situates her analysis of Islamist terrorism within the theoretical discussion of terrorism in general, in opposition to the thesis of 'Middle Eastern exceptionalism.' Well researched and admirably argued, her book is a considerable achievement and a most important contribution to the debate; it will be read with profit by all specialists on the region as well as those working in terrorism studies."

– Hugh Roberts, Director, North Africa Project, International Crisis Group

"Drawing on her deep knowledge of Middle East politics, Dalacoura powerfully challenges past assumptions about a simple link between democratic deficits and the spread of Islamist terrorism and about possible moderating effects of political inclusion. Conceptually rigorous, empirically rich, incisive, and searching, this is a major study on a topic of fundamental, continuing importance."

– Thomas Carothers, Carnegie Endowment for International Peace

Katerina Dalacoura is Lecturer in International Relations at the London School of Economics and Political Science. She is author of Islam, Liberalism and Human Rights, Third Edition (2003) and Engagement or Coercion: Weighing Western Human Rights Policies towards Turkey, Iran and Egypt (2004).

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS
www.cambridge.org

ISBN 978-0-521-86518-0

Cover image: Israeli troops enter Nablus in pursuit of Palestinian militants. Copyright © David Silverman / Getty Images.

Cover design by fred goykhman / PETT Fox, Inc.

Contents

Acknowledgements page ix

Introduction: The Book's Central Question and Rationale 1
US Democracy Promotion in the Middle East after 11 September 2001 3
The Book's Argument and Methodology 10
Key Terms and Concepts 13

1 Terrorism, Democracy and Islamist Terrorism 21
Terrorism and Democracy 23
The Causes of Islamist Terrorism 30
Conclusion 38

2 Transnational Islamist Terrorism: Al Qaeda 40
Al Qaeda's Evolution as a Terrorist Actor 42
Rootlessness and Terrorist Violence 48
Rootlessness and the Absence of Terrorism: The Case of Hizb ut Tahrir 59
Conclusion 62

3 Islamist Terrorism and National Liberation: Hamas and Hizbullah 66
Hamas 69
The Muslim Brotherhood and the Emergence of Hamas in the First Intifada 69
Terrorism and the Oslo Peace Process 71
The al Aqsa Intifada and the 2006 Legislative Elections 76
Hizbullah 81
Hizbullah Terrorism in the 1980s 81
The Trajectory of Terrorism and Violence in the 1990s and Beyond 86
Conclusion 93

4 Islamist Terrorism in Domestic Conflicts: The Armed Islamic Group in Algeria and the Gamaa Islamiya in Egypt 97
The Armed Islamic Group (GIA) 99
The Background of Islamist Politics in Algeria 99
The Rise and Fall of the Islamic Salvation Front (FIS) 101
Terrorism and the GIA 107
The Gamaa Islamiya 111
Islamist Politics in Egypt and the Emergence of the Gamaa Islamiya 111
Patterns of Terrorism in the Egyptian Conflict of the 1990s 115
Conclusion 119

5 Moderation and Islamist Movements in Opposition: The Jordanian Muslim Brotherhood/Islamic Action Front, the Egyptian Muslim Brotherhood and the Tunisian Nahda 123
The Jordanian Muslim Brotherhood/Islamic Action Front 124
Islamist Politics in Jordan 124
Participation as a Cause of Moderation 127
Egypt's Muslim Brotherhood 130
The Monarchical and Nasser Eras 130
The Muslim Brotherhood's Ideological Evolution under Sadat and Mubarak 133
Participation and Repression as Causes of Moderation 137
Tunisia's Nahda 140
Islamist Politics in Tunisia 140
Moderation despite Repression 143
Conclusion 145

6 Islamist Moderation and the Experience of Government: Turkey's Welfare and Justice and Development Parties and the Islamic Republic of Iran 148
Turkey's Welfare and Justice and Development Parties 149
Islamist Politics until the 1980s 149
The Welfare Party 152
The Justice and Development Party (JDP) 155
The Islamic Republic of Iran 161
Iranian Islamism under the Shah 161
Terrorism and the Islamic Republic 162
Democracy, Liberalism and Political Pluralism 168
Conclusion 174

Conclusion 180

Bibliography 187

Index 209