

Contents

List of Maps .....	xiv
List of Tables .....	xvi
Introduction .....	xvii

Chapters

1. Carpatho-Rusyns and the land of Carpathian Rus' .....	1
Human geography
No shortage of names
Physical geography
A borderland of borders
2. Carpathian Rus' in prehistoric times .....	15
Earliest human settlements
The Iron Age and the Celts
Early peoples in Carpathian Rus'
The Roman Empire and the Dacians
3. The Slavs and their arrival in the Carpathians .....	23
The Huns and the displacement of peoples
The origin-of-peoples fetish
Is DNA the reliable way?
The Slavs and Carpathian Rus'
Dwellings of the early Slavs
The White Croats and the Avars
4. State formation in central Europe .....	33
The Pax Romana and the Byzantine Empire
Greater Moravia
Saints Constantine/Cyril and Methodius
Christianity becomes "our" religion

The Magyars and Hungary
Historical memory and political reality
The rise of Poland
Kievan Rus'
The Great Debate: the origin of Rus'
5. Carpathian Rus' until the early 16th century	53
The formation of the Hungarian Kingdom
A medieval Carpatho-Rusyn state: fact or fiction?
The Mongol invasion and the restructuring of Hungary
The Vlach colonization
Kings, nobles, and the implementation of serfdom
Poland: administrative and socioeconomic structure
The fall of Constantinople and the decline of Orthodoxy
6. The Reformation, the Counter-Reformation, and Carpathian Rus'	74
The Ottoman Empire in central Europe
The Protestant Reformation
The Catholic Counter-Reformation
Poland and church union
Transylvania and church union in Hungary
The Union of Uzhhorod
Uniates/Greek Catholics: A new church or a return to the old?
7. The Habsburg restoration in Carpathian Rus'	88
Rákóczi's "War of Liberation"
Habsburg Austria's transformation of Carpathian Rus'
The Bachka-Srem Vojvodinian Rusyns
Poland and Galicia's Lemko Region
8. Habsburg reforms and their impact on Carpatho-Rusyns	97
The reforms of Maria Theresa and Joseph II
Uniate/Greek Catholics and the Enlightenment in Carpathian Rus'
Carpatho-Rusyns become an historical people
9. The Revolution of 1848 and the Carpatho-Rusyn national awakening	107
The multicultural Austrian Empire
Kakania's emperors and kings
What is nationalism and what are national movements?
Nationalism in Hungary

From inferiority to superiority: the transformation of a dangerous complex
Revolution in the Austrian lands and Hungary
The Carpatho-Rusyn national awakening: politics
The first Carpatho-Rusyn political program
The Carpatho-Rusyn national awakening: culture
Did Carpatho-Rusyns really love the Russians?
10. Carpathian Rus' in Austria-Hungary, 1868-1914	11
The Dual Monarchy and Austrian parliamentarism
In search of a Rus' national identity
The national awakening in the Lemko Region
Hungary and its magyarization policies
Magyarization despite the letter of the law
Carpatho-Rusyns in Hungarian politics
Carpatho-Rusyns and national survival
Socioeconomic developments
Was life in pre-World War I Carpathian Rus' so destitute?
11. Carpatho-Rusyn diasporas before World War I	15
Migration to the Srem, Banat, and Bachka
Emigration abroad to the United States
Rusyn-American religious and secular organizations
Rejected Greek Catholics and the "return" to Orthodoxy
"You are not a proper priest"
"Ruthenians" become Uhro (Hungarian)-Rusyns, or Russians, or Ukrainians
Rusyn Americans and international politics
12. Carpathian Rus' during World War I, 1914-1918	16
The end of civilized Europe
World War I in Carpathian Rus'
The war against Carpatho-Rusyn civilians
Magyarization reaches its peak
13. The end of the old and the birth of a new order, 1918-1919	17
National self-determination and socialist revolution
Rusyn Americans mobilize politically
Political mobilization in the Carpatho-Rusyn homeland
Hungary's autonomous Rus' Land
The Ukrainian option
The meaning of Ukraine
Carpatho-Rusyns on the international stage

14. Subcarpathian Rus' in interwar Czechoslovakia, 1919–1938 .....	191
Czechoslovakia and "Rusyns south of the Carpathians"
Borders and the autonomy question
Carpatho-Rusyn national anthems
Hungarian irredentism
Political life
Socioeconomic developments
Subcarpathian Rus': Czechoslovakia's architectural tabula rasa
Education and culture
Churches and the religious question
Orthodoxy: the jurisdictional problem
The nationality and language questions
The language question
15. The Prešov Region in interwar Slovakia, 1919–1938 .....	219
Borders, schools, and censuses
The problem of statistics
Carpatho-Rusyns and Slovaks
Socioeconomic developments
Education
The religious question
The nationality question and cultural developments
16. The Lemko Region in interwar Poland, 1919–1938 .....	233
Poland, its Ukrainian problem, and the Lemko Region
Socioeconomic status of the Lemko Rusyns
Religious and civic activity
The Lemko-Rusyn national awakening
17. Carpatho-Rusyn diasporas during the interwar years, 1919–1938 .....	241
Romania and Hungary
Yugoslavia—the Vojvodina
The United States
Marriage and property: two sticking points
18. Other peoples in Subcarpathian Rus' .....	253
Magyars
Jews
Relations between Jews and Carpatho-Rusyns
Germans
Romanians, Slovaks, and Roma/Gypsies
Russians, Ukrainians, and Czechs

19. Autonomous Subcarpathian Rus' and Carpatho-Ukraine, 1938–1939 .....	269
The struggle for autonomy during the interwar years
Nazi Germany and the Munich Pact
Autonomous Subcarpathian Rus'
From Subcarpathian Rus' to Carpatho-Ukraine
Alternatives to the Ukrainian national orientation
Carpatho-Ukraine's road to "independence"
20. Carpathian Rus' during World War II, 1939–1944 .....	279
Nazi Germany's New Order in Europe
The Lemko Region in Nazi Germany
Carpatho-Rusyns in the Slovak state
Subcarpathian Rus' in Hungary
The apogee of the Rusyn national orientation
Opposition to Hungarian rule
21. Carpathian Rus' in transition, 1944–1945 .....	291
The Soviet Army and Ukrainian nationalist partisans
Rusyn/Lemko Americans and the war in Europe
The Soviet "liberation" of Subcarpathian Rus'
Transcarpathian Ukraine and "reunification"
The act of reunification
Czechoslovakia acquiesces to Soviet hegemony
Why did Czechoslovakia give up Subcarpathian Rus'?
The new Poland and the deportation of the Lemkos: Phase one
22. Subcarpathian Rus'/Transcarpathia in the Soviet Union, 1945–1991 .....	305
Subcarpathian Rus' becomes Soviet Transcarpathia
The Soviet socio-political model
Totalitarian time
Forced collectivization and industrialization
Transcarpathia's new peoples
Revising the past and reckoning with "enemies of the people"
How Carpatho-Rusyns were declared Ukrainians
Destruction of the Greek Catholic Church
Transcarpathia's new Soviet society
Love of the East
23. The Prešov Region in postwar and Communist Czechoslovakia, 1945–1989 .....	321
Postwar politics: the Ukrainian National Council
Population transfers and the UPA

Communist Czechoslovakia according to the Soviet model Carpatho-Rusyns are ukrainianized The Prague Spring and the rebirth of Carpatho-Rusyns Soviet-style political consolidation and reukrainianization Socioeconomic achievements and national assimilation
24. The Lemko Region and Lemko Rusyns in Communist Poland, 1945–1989	335
Poland reconstituted and reconstructed The deportation of the Lemkos: Phase two Greek Catholic and Orthodox Lemkos Lemkos as Ukrainians Lemko fear and anxiety
25. Carpatho-Rusyn diasporas old and new, 1945–1989	343
Soviet Ukraine (Galicia and Volhynia) Czechoslovakia (Bohemia and Moravia) Romania (the Banat and Maramureş Regions) Yugoslavia (Vojvodina and Srem) The United States We want to know who we are
26. The revolutions of 1989	355
Transformation and demise of the Soviet Union The end of Communist rule in central Europe Carpatho-Rusyns reassert their existence One people despite international borders Proclamation of the First World Congress of Rusyns The autonomy question again
27. Post-Communist Transcarpathia—Ukraine	363
Unfulfilled political expectations Ukraine's "Rusyn question" Carpatho-Rusyns in the international context Socioeconomic realities A failed or incomplete national movement? Traditional religious and secular culture Protestantism and Carpatho-Rusyns
28. The post-Communist Prešov Region and the Lemko Region—Slovakia and Poland	379
Czechoslovakia's Velvet Revolution Censuses confirm nationalities Independent Slovakia and the European Union

Prešov Region Carpatho-Rusyns reaffirm their existence The Greek Catholic Church: a positive or negative force? Nationality assertion and assimilation Codification of a Rusyn literary language Poland's three Lemko-Rusyn communities Lemko Rusyns or Lemko Ukrainians? The Vatra: a symbol of national and political advocacy The attraction of Polish assimilation
29. Other Carpatho-Rusyn communities in the wake of the revolutions of 1989	393
Ukraine The Czech Republic Hungary Romania Yugoslavia—Serbia and Croatia The United States Canada
30. Carpathian Rus'—real or imagined?	407
Carpathian Rus': a reality or an idea? Carpathian Rus' beyond Carpathian Rus' Enemies as friends A movement of women and young people Education and national self-confidence
Notes	413
For further reading	433
1. Reference works and general studies
2. Prehistoric times to the 16th century
3. The 17th and early 18th centuries
4. The reform era and Habsburg rule, 1770s to 1847
5. The Revolution of 1848 to the end of World War I
6. The interwar years, 1919–1938
7. International crises and World War II, 1938–1945
8. The Communist era, 1945–1989
9. The revolutions of 1989 and their aftermath
Illustration Sources and Credits	477
Index	479