

Contents

List of figures and tables	page viii
Preface to the third edition	ix
Introduction: Why a history of International Relations theory?	1
Part I Preludes
1 Gods, sinners and preludes of International Relations theory	15
2 Renaissance politics: the roots of the modern ages	45
Part II Philosophies of war and peace
3 Reformation politics: guns, ships and printing presses	71
4 Absolutist politics: kings, wars and an interstate system	97
5 Enlightenment politics: the revolutionary rise of popular sovereignty	128
6 Ideological politics: the nineteenth century and the rise of mass participation	169
Part III The classic age of International Relations
7 Intermezzo: becoming contemporary	203
8 The Great War, the big League and the twenty years' crisis	242
9 World War II, the UN and the postwar order	278
10 Rivals, realists and Cold War	313
11 The thaw and the Third World: the Cold War after Stalin	336
12 Arms races and revolutions: systems and structures in an age of upheaval	364
13 The turn: the coming of the neo-liberal world	395
Part IV A future history of International Relations
14 Unipolar world?	427
15 Global politics: the end of International Relations?	456
Bibliography	493
Index	522