

CONTENTS

Preface / ix

1. News in a Changing Information System / 1

Why Journalism Matters / 4

Can the News Be Fixed? / 5

The Citizen Gap: Who Follows the News? / 7

Governing with the News / 9

Politicians and the Media: A Symbiotic Relationship / 11

Getting Spun: Indexing the News to Political Power / 15

CASE STUDY: Political Comedy Reveals the "Truthiness" about News / 17

What about the People? / 22

A Definition of News / 24

The Fragile Link between News and Democracy / 25

2. News Stories: Four Information Biases That Matter / 28

Putting Journalistic Bias in Perspective / 30

A Different Kind of Bias / 33

Four Information Biases That Matter: An Overview / 36

Four Information Biases in the News: An In-Depth Look / 40

CASE STUDY: Who Controls the News Narrative? / 53

Bias and the US Political Information System / 56

Reform Anyone? / 57

3. Citizens and the News: Public Opinion and Information Processing / 59

News and the Battle for Public Opinion / 61

Chasing Its Own Tale: How News Formulas Shape Opinion / 62

The Public in the News Drama / 66

Selling the Iraq War / 67

Reaching Inattentive Publics / 70

CASE STUDY: National Attention Deficit Disorder? / 71

Processing the News / 74

News and Public Opinion: The Citizen's Dilemma / 84

Publics in the Digital Age / 87

4. How Politicians Make the News / 89

Are Social Media Replacing the Role of the Press? / 92

The Politics of Old-Fashioned PR / 94

CASE STUDY: How Global Warming Became a Partisan News Story / 95

Press Politics: Feeding the Beast / 98

News as Strategic Political Communication / 100

The Symbolic Uses of Politics / 102

Symbolic Politics and Strategic Communication / 104

Why the Press Is So Easily Spun / 112

Controlling the Situation: From Pseudo-events to Damage Control / 113

Playing Hardball: The Intimidation of Whistleblowers and Reporters / 119

Government and the Politics of Newsmaking / 121

5. How Journalists Report the News / 124

How Spin Works / 128

Journalistic Routines and Professional Norms / 131

Reporters as a Pack: Pressures to Agree / 138

The Paradox of Organizational Routines / 144

The End of Gatekeeping and the Challenges of Change / 146

The Rise of the New Investigative Journalism / 148

CASE STUDY: Hacktivist Journalism:

The New Investigative Reporting in the Digital Age / 148

Democracy with or without Citizens? / 152

6. Inside the Profession: The Objectivity Crisis / 154

The Professional Vocabulary of Objectivity, Fairness, Balance, and Truth / 155

The Curious Origins of Objective Journalism / 157

Putting Professional Norms into Practice / 161

CASE STUDY: False Balance in the News / 176

Objectivity Reconsidered / 178

Journalism and the Crisis of Credibility / 179

7. The Political Economy of News / 181

CASE STUDY: Adapt or Die: The Future of News in Native Digital Media / 184

The Legacy Media Try to Hold On / 188

Ownership Deregulation and the End of Social Responsibility Standards / 190

The Media Monopoly: Four Decades of Change / 194

Big Business versus the Public Interest / 196

The Citizen Movement for Media Reform / 202

Technology, Economics, and Democracy / 205

8. The Future of News in a Time of Change / 207

Information Technology and Citizenship: Isolation or Deliberation? / 209

Whither the Public Sphere? / 211

Three American Myths about Freedom of the Press / 212

News and Power in America: Myth versus Reality / 217

Why the Free Press Myth Persists / 218

Proposals for Citizens, Journalists, and Politicians / 222

Time for a Public Discussion about the Role of the Press / 233

CASE STUDY: Innovation and Change in News Formats / 235

In Closing: How to Fight the Information Overload / 239

Acknowledgments / 243

Notes / 245

Index / 273