

Table of Contents

Preface .....	vii
----------------------	-----

Section 1 Empirical Perspectives

Chapter 1

Optimising Customers as Knowledge Resources and Recipients: Cases in Small to Medium Sized Software Enterprises .....	1
---	---

Ciara Heavin, University College Cork, Ireland

Frederic Adam, University College Cork, Ireland

Chapter 2

Perceived Risks of Customer Knowledge Management.....	19
---	----

Carolina López-Nicolás, University of Murcia, Spain

Francisco-José Molina-Castillo, University of Murcia, Spain

Chapter 3

Unarmed Prophets Have Come to Grief: KM and the Problem of Systematizing Trust Relationships.....	32
---	----

Jennifer Adelstein, International College of Management - Sydney (ICMS), Australia

Chapter 4

The Importance of Collaboration in Knowledge Management in Public Services: Creating Value for Stakeholders .....	47
---	----

António Carrizo Moreira, University of Aveiro, Portugal

Ricardo Augusto Zimmermann, University of Aveiro, Portugal

Chapter 5

Consumer Centric Knowledge Management in Zakat Institutions as Strategic Approach to Reduce Poverty .....	64
---	----

Abu Baker Ramadan Mohamed Hussain, Taibah University, Saudi Arabia

Section 2

Engaging Emerging Markets

Chapter 6

- The Relevance of Customers as a Source of Knowledge in IT Firms ..... 86
Laura Zapata Cantú, Tecnológico de Monterrey, Mexico
José Luis Pineda, Tecnológico de Monterrey, Mexico

Chapter 7

- Effective Tools for Customer Knowledge Management..... 102
Kamla Ali Al-Busaidi, Sultan Qaboos University, Oman

Chapter 8

- An Evaluation of Customer-Centric Benefits Associated with Knowledge Management..... 124
Petra Marešová, University of Hradec Králové, Czech Republic
Vladimír Bureš, University of Hradec Králové, Czech Republic & City University of Seattle, Slovakia
Richard Brunet-Thornton, University of Economics-Prague (VŠE), Czech Republic & IMCA/GARC(UK), Canada
Tereza Otčenášková, University of Hradec Králové, Czech Republic

Chapter 9

- The Role of Emotional Intelligence in Knowledge-Enabled Customer Delight: A Case on Bahrain..... 146
Suhaila Al Hashemi, University of Bahrain, Bahrain
Zahra Haji, University of Bahrain, Bahrain

Chapter 10

- Micro-Level Stickiness as a Threat to Client Centric Knowledge Transfer among ICT Firms in Malaysian Technology Parks ..... 165
Yusof Ismail, International Islamic University Malaysia, Malaysia
Suhaimi Mhd Sarif, International Islamic University Malaysia, Malaysia

Chapter 11

- Customer Service in an Emerging Market (UAE)..... 189
Rawdha Khamis Al Mehairbi, Zayed University, UAE
Yoosuf Cader, Zayed University, UAE

Section 3

Theoretical Considerations

Chapter 12

- An Enterprise Model for Customer-Centric Knowledge Management and Knowledge-Oriented Customer Relationship Management..... 203
Joseph O. Chan, Roosevelt University, USA

Chapter 13

Integrating Customer Relationship Management, Performance Management, and Knowledge

Management through Balanced Scorecard ..... 223

Anthony Liew, Capital Motors Inc., Taiwan

Chapter 14

A Comprehensive Model for Customer Knowledge Management Mechanisms..... 250

Neda Sakhaee, Iran University of Science and Technology, Iran

Hamidreza Shahbaznezhad, University of Tehran, Iran

Mehdi Shami Zanjani, University of Tehran, Iran

Chapter 15

A Knowledge Management Approach to Marketing and the Advent of Customer Knowledge

Management..... 264

Samiha Mjahed, University of Tunis, Tunisia

Abdelfattah Triki, University of Tunis, Tunisia

Chapter 16

Strategic Imperatives for Customer Centric Approach..... 285

Neeta Baporikar, CAS - Salalah, Sultanate of Oman

About the Contributors ..... 305

Index..... 312