

Contents

|                                                           |       |
|-----------------------------------------------------------|-------|
| Editors .....                                             | xi    |
| Contributors .....                                        | xiii  |
| Introduction.....                                         | xxiii |
| Jackie Guendouzi, Filip Loncke, and Mandy Williams |       |

SECTION I Some Basic Considerations: Models and Theories

|                  |                                                                                                                                                           |     |
|------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Chapter 1 | The Development of Linguistic Systems: Insights From Evolution .....                                                                                      | 3   |
|                  | John Locke                                                                                                                                         |     |
| Chapter 2 | The Competition Model and Language Disorders .....                                                                                                        | 31  |
|                  | Nora Presson and Brian MacWhinney                                                                                                                  |     |
| Chapter 3 | Language Processing in Normal Aging .....                                                                                                                 | 49  |
|                  | Lise Abrams and Meagan T. Farrell                                                                                                                  |     |
| Chapter 4 | Working Memory and Attention in Language Use .....                                                                                                        | 75  |
|                  | Nelson Cowan                                                                                                                                       |     |
| Chapter 5 | Neurobiological Bases of the Semantic Processing of Words.....                                                                                            | 99  |
|                  | Karima Kahlaoui, Bernadette Ska, Clotilde Degroot, and Yves Joannette                                                                              |     |
| Chapter 6 | From Phonemes to Discourse: Event-Related Brain Potential (ERP) Componentry and Paradigms for Investigating Normal and Abnormal Language Processing ..... | 119 |
|                  | Marta Kutas, Katherine DeLong, and Michael Kiang                                                                                                   |     |

|                   |                                                                                                                          |     |
|-------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Chapter 7  | Early Word Learning: Reflections on Behavior, Connectionist Models, and Brain Mechanisms Indexed by ERP Components ..... | 145 |
|                   | Manuela Friedrich                                                                                                 |     |
| Chapter 8  | Connectionist Models of Aphasia and Other Language Impairments .....                                                     | 169 |
|                   | Gary Dell and Audrey Kittredge                                                                                    |     |
| Chapter 9  | Modeling the Attentional Control of Vocal Utterances: From Wernicke to WEAVER++ .....                                    | 189 |
|                   | Ardi Roelofs                                                                                                      |     |
| Chapter 10 | Theories of Semantic Processing .....                                                                                    | 209 |
|                   | John Shelley-Tremblay                                                                                             |     |
| Chapter 11 | Language Comprehension: A Neurocognitive Perspective.....                                                                | 227 |
|                   | Catherine Longworth and William Marslen-Wilson                                                                    |     |
| Chapter 12 | Formulaic Expressions in Mind and Brain: Empirical Studies and a Dual-Process Model of Language Competence .....         | 247 |
|                   | Diana Van Lancker Sidtis                                                                                          |     |
| Chapter 13 | How Similarity Influences Word Recognition: The Effect of Neighbors .....                                                | 273 |
|                   | Mark Yates                                                                                                        |     |
| Chapter 14 | Two Theories of Speech Production and Perception.....                                                                    | 291 |
|                   | Mark Tatham and Katherine Morton                                                                                  |     |
| Chapter 15 | Psycholinguistic Validity and Phonological Representation .....                                                          | 313 |
|                   | Ben Rutter and Martin J. Ball                                                                                     |     |
| Chapter 16 | From Phonology to Articulation: A Neurophonetic View .....                                                               | 327 |
|                   | Wolfram Ziegler, Hermann Ackermann, and Juliane Kappes                                                            |     |

SECTION II Developmental Disorders

|                   |                                                                                                    |     |
|-------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Chapter 17 | (Central) Auditory Processing Disorders: Current Conceptualizations .....                          | 347 |
|                   | Terri Shive and Teri James Bellis                                                           |     |
| Chapter 18 | Temporal Processing in Children With Language Disorders .....                                      | 361 |
|                   | Martha Burns                                                                                |     |
| Chapter 19 | Language Processing in Children With Language Impairment .....                                     | 373 |
|                   | Bernard Grela, Beverly Collisson, and Dana Arthur                                           |     |
| Chapter 20 | Grammatical-Specific Language Impairment: A Window Onto Domain Specificity .....                   | 401 |
|                   | Heather van der Lely and Chloë Marshall                                                     |     |
| Chapter 21 | The Developing Mental Lexicon of Children With Specific Language Impairment .....                  | 419 |
|                   | Holly Storkel                                                                               |     |
| Chapter 22 | Language–Speech Processing in Developmental Fluency Disorders .....                                | 435 |
|                   | Peter Howell                                                                                |     |
| Chapter 23 | An Approach to Differentiating Bilingualism and Language Impairment .....                          | 463 |
|                   | Sharon Armon-Lotem and Joel Walters                                                         |     |
| Chapter 24 | Nonlinear Phonology: Clinical Applications for Kuwaiti Arabic, German, and Standard Mandarin ..... | 489 |
|                   | B. May Bernhardt, Joseph Stemberger, Hadeel Ayyad, Angela Ullrich, and Jing Zhao            |     |
| Chapter 25 | Bilingual Children With SLI: Theories, Research and Future Directions .....                        | 515 |
|                   | Maria Adelaida Restrepo, Gareth Morgan, and Ekaterina Smyk                                  |     |

SECTION III    *Acquired Disorders

Chapter 26 Apraxia of Speech: From Psycholinguistic Theory to the Conceptualization and Management of an Impairment..... 535
Rosemary Varley

Chapter 27 The Role of Memory and Attention in Aphasic Language Performance .....551
Malcolm McNeil, William Hula, and Jee Eun Sung

Chapter 28 Remediation of Theory of Mind Impairments in Brain-Injured Adults ..... 579
Kristine Lundgren and Hiram Brownell

Chapter 29 Cognitive Communication Disorders After Traumatic Brain Injury ..... 603
Leanne Togher

Chapter 30 Breakdown of Semantics in Aphasia and Dementia: A Role for Attention?..... 625
John Shelley-Tremblay

Chapter 31 Neurolinguistic and Neurocognitive Considerations of Language Processing in Bilingual Individuals ..... 645
José G. Centeno

SECTION IV    *Language and Other Modalities

Chapter 32 Gestures and Growth Points in Language Disorders ..... 663
David McNeill and Susan Duncan

Chapter 33 Neural Organization of Language: Clues From Sign Language Aphasia..... 687
Gregory Hickok and Ursula Bellugi

Chapter 34 Sign Languages and Sign Language Research..... 709
Myriam Vermeerbergen and Mieke Van Herreweghe

Chapter 35 Language in Autism: Pragmatics and Theory of Mind ..... 731
Jennifer Barnes and Simon Baron-Cohen

Chapter 36 Relevance Theory and Language Interpretation ..... 747
Nuala Ryder and Eeva Leinonen

Chapter 37 Psycholinguistics and Augmentative and Alternative
Communication .....761
Filip Loncke

Epilogue ..... 779
Jackie Guendouzi, Filip Loncke, and Mandy Williams

Author Index ..... 781

Subject Index.....811