

Contents

Acknowledgements page ix

Note on translation xii

Introduction: French politics after the deluge 1

Part I Writing the national narrative in contemporary France

The return of republicanism

1 Writing histories: two republican narratives 9

2 From nouveaux philosophes to nouveaux réactionnaires:
Marxism and the Republic 32

3 La République en danger! The search for consensus and the rise of neo-republican politics 55

4 Post-colonies I: integration, disintegration and citizenship 80

5 The Republic, the Anglo-Saxon and the European project 105

Part II Liberal critics of contemporary France

Le libéralisme introuvable?

6 In the shadow of Raymond Aron: the 'liberal revival' of the 1980s 135

7 Rewriting Jacobinism: François Furet, Pierre
Rosanvallon and modern French history 158

8 Post-colonies II: the politics of multiculturalism and colonial memory 186

9 Whither the Trente Glorieuses? The language of crisis and the reform of the state 209

10	Liberal politics in France: a story of failure?	233
	Conclusion: the search for consensus in twenty-first-century France	261
	Bibliography	265
	Index	293