

Contents

Table of Cases	viii
Table of Legislation	xxiv
Preface	xxvii
1 Getting Our Bearings	1
1.1 The scope of administrative law	1
1.2 Law	5
1.3 Two approaches to administrative law	6
1.4 The book's geography	10
2 Historical and Constitutional Contexts	14
2.1 The British heritage	15
2.2 The American heritage	21
2.3 The colonial heritage	22
2.4 Federation and onwards	26
3 The Scope of Judicial Review	36
3.1 General introduction to judicial review	36
3.2 The nature of the courts' review jurisdiction	38
3.3 The shifting and complex boundaries of judicial review	43
3.4 Constitutional sources of judicial review jurisdiction	45
3.5 Statutory sources of judicial review jurisdiction	53
3.6 The supervisory jurisdiction of state Supreme Courts	69
4 Judicial Review Remedies	84
4.1 The common law remedial model	84
4.2 The ADJR Act remedial model	88
4.3 The continuing significance of the common law remedial model	90
4.4 Three troublesome distinctions	93
4.5 The judicial review remedies	96
4.6 Discretion to refuse a remedy	107
4.7 The idea of invalidity and the importance of context	108

5	The Grounds of Judicial Review	112
5.1	Introduction	112
5.2	Procedural grounds	117
5.3	Reasoning process grounds: the control of administrative choice	137
5.4	Decisional grounds	148
6	Access to Judicial Review	177
6.1	Two approaches to standing	177
6.2	Australian Conservation Foundation and the special interest test	179
6.3	Standing and specific remedies	182
6.4	Towards open standing?	183
7	Restricting Judicial Review	188
7.1	The constitutional foundations of judicial review	189
7.2	The interpretation of privative clauses: the general approach	191
7.3	Privative clauses and politics	206
7.4	Privative clauses and institutional design	207
8	Tribunals and Merits Review	209
8.1	Introduction	209
8.2	Tribunals	211
8.3	The merits review 'system'	216
8.4	The Administrative Appeals Tribunal	217
8.5	Access to merits review in the AAT	219
8.6	The basis of merits review	225
8.7	Outcomes of merits review	234
8.8	Two topics for further reflection	235
9	Beyond Courts and Tribunals	238
9.1	Introduction	238
9.2	Internal processes	241
9.3	Ombudsmen	245
9.4	Parliaments	256
10	Freedom of Information	266
10.1	What is freedom of information?	266
10.2	The value of information	266
10.3	A very short history of FOI in Australia	268
10.4	The main functions of FOI regimes	269
10.5	What is information?	270

10.6	The federal FOI regime	271
10.7	The relationship between FOI and cognate bodies of law	276
10.8	Coda: FOI and accountability	278
11	Private Law in a Public Context: Contract and Tort	281
11.1	Introduction	281
11.2	Tort	282
11.3	Contract	290
11.4	Private law and the regulatory approach	301
12	Values and Effects of Administrative Law	303
12.1	What is administrative law for?	303
12.2	What does administrative law achieve?	311
	Index	320