

Contents

List of figures	x
Acknowledgements	xi
Introduction	xii

PART 1

ON TELEVISION AND TELEVISION STUDIES

1	Television and tele-literacy	3
	Television today	3
	Tele-literacy	5
2	The history of television in the United Kingdom	10
	Conditions of possibility	10
3	The contemporary landscape: UK channels and public service	18
	The three ages of television	18
	The BBC and its future	19
	Commercial UK broadcasters and public service	22
	Ofcom and regulation	25
	Other UK-based channels	28
	Independent production companies	28
	Kate Beal: Woodcut Media	32

4	The contemporary landscape: globalisation, multichannel and multiplatform	35
	Globalisation and multichannel	35
	Online and multiplatform	37
5	The landscape of television in the United Kingdom: text	41
	The age of superabundance: interstitials and paratexts	41
	The linear flow: scheduling and branding	42
	Cross-platform, paratexts and interactivity	45
	About genres	47
	Overview of the main television genres	48
	A note on ratings, funding and formats	52
6	Studying television	54
	Studying television: an overview	54
	Mapping the field	55
PART 2
THE PRACTITIONERS' PERSPECTIVE
7	Working in television: an overview	67
	Working in television	67
	Programme production types	69
	Production processes	72
	Television work areas	74
8	Producing and production management	76
	Producers	76
	Production management	78
	Abigail McKenzie: Talent Team Assistant, BBC Children's Department	84
9	The director's concerns	86
	Director and crew	86
	The director's concerns	89
	Types of shot	94
	A fresh perception of the world	102

12 The visual dimension: cameras, lighting and the cinematographer	104
Cameras and recording media	104
Cameras and digital cinematography	107
Visions of light	111
Lighting: basic principles	113
13 Sound recording and the audio space	119
Television and the flow of sound	119
Sound recording and audio design	122
Sound quality	127
14 Studios and studio work	136
'Live' and 'as live'	136
Working in the studio	137
Studios	144
QVC: the shopping channel	145
15 Post-production processes: editing	151
Editing and post-production	151
The work of editing	154
Editing processes	157
Styles of editing	159
The final stages	163
16 Sound, visual effects and preparing for broadcast	165
The aural dimension: creating the audio space	165
Sound editing	168
Graphics and visual effects	172
Post-production: preparing for broadcast and distribution	179
Luke Sothinathan: VT technician	181
PART 3
PROGRAMMES AND GENRES	183
17 Drama and television narrative	185
Thinking about narrative	185

	Fictional narratives: drama	186
	Narrative theory	192
	Narrative realism and other realisms	200
	Identity and narration	204
16	From documentary to factual entertainment	207
	Contemporary factual programming	207
	Brief history of UK documentary: the creative treatment of actuality	209
	Documentary and contemporary subgenres	212
	Research for factual programmes	215
	Interview techniques	219
	Documentary and factual ethics	223
	Anne Parisio: Parisio Productions	229
	Note	229
17	News, politics and television as information	232
	LISETTE JOHNSTON
	History	232
	Types of news and current affairs	233
	Television news teams	235
	The news agenda	240
	Producing the news	242
	Gio Ulleri: journalist/filmmaker	245
PART 4
TRAINING AND INDUSTRY CONTEXTS
		249
18	Training, education and getting into the industry	251
	Training and getting into the industry	251
	RedBalloon and Solent Productions	254
19	Opening up the industry: diversity and access	257
	Diversity and access	257
	Relevant documents	260
	MAMA Youth Project	260
	Bob Clarke: Executive Producer, MAMA Youth Project	262

Journal - my story	264
Learning and opportunities: a list of useful references	266
Journal's diary	268
Journal's diary: April–November 2015	268
Journal for entry-level jobs	275
Learning programmes: pitching and commissioning	276
Turning an idea into a commission	276
Opportunities and funds	281
Index	285
Biography	301
Programme references	308
Journal	323