

CONTENTS

List of Figures and Tables	page xi
Foreword	xiii
Preface, Acknowledgements and Disclaimer	xv
Table of Cases	xvii
List of Acronyms and Abbreviations	xxxiv

I: The Topic and Its Importance, the Scope and Structure of This Study, Overview of Relevant Theoretical Issues	1
I. Setting the Context	1
II. The Scope and Structure of This Study	8
III. Overview of Relevant Theoretical Issues	15
IV. Summary and Concluding Remarks	34
II: Freedom of Transit and Pipeline Gas: Overview of Relevant Legal, Political and Economic Aspects	35
I. Introduction	35
II. Freedom of Transit and Territorial Sovereignty	36
III. Freedom of Transit and Pipeline Gas	42
IV. Summary and Concluding Remarks	62
III: General Overview of the International Regulation of Transit	63
I. Introduction	63
II. Transit and Its Historical Contexts – General Overview	65
III. Freedom of Transit in Different Areas of International Law	68
IV. Is the Principle of Freedom of Transit a Principle of General International Law?	101
V. Summary and Concluding Remarks	117

IV: Pipeline Gas Transit under WTO Law: Assessment of Third-Party Access and Capacity Establishment Rights	119
I. Introduction	119
II. Applicability of WTO Law to Gas Transit: GATT or GATS?	120
III. Third-Party Access and Capacity Establishment under the GATT	124
IV. Third-Party Access and Capacity Establishment under the GATS	166
V. WTO Rules Regulating Conditions of Transit, Exceptions and Institutional Arrangements	177
VI. Summary and Concluding Remarks	188
V: Third-Party Access and Capacity Establishment Rights in Light of General Principles of International Law	189
I. Introduction	189
II. Relevant Principles of General International Law	191
III. Practical Questions Arising in the Context of Effective Freedom of Gas Transit	230
IV. Summary and Concluding Remarks	240
VI: Freedom of Gas Transit in the WTO: Dispute Settlement or Legislative Reform?	243
I. Introduction	243
II. Enforcing Third-Party Access and Capacity Establishment Rights in the WTO Dispute Settlement: A Viable Option?	243
III. How Can the Regulation of Third-Party Access and Capacity Establishment Rights in the WTO Be Improved?	256
IV. Summary and Concluding Remarks	296
VII: General Summary and Conclusions	299
Appendix 1: Selected Legal Materials	308
Appendix 2: Regulation of Transit in Selected Multilateral Treaties	323
Appendix 3: Examples of Transit Gas Pipelines and Flows, 2014	328
Bibliography	331
Index	357