

Contents

Notes on contributors	7
Introduction	10
Adrian Favell and Andrew Geddes
1 The politics of belonging: some theoretical considerations	15
John Crowley
2 Immigration and minority policy debate in Britain: Multicultural political narratives contested	42
Shamit Saggat
3 Re-imagined communities? Education policies and national belonging in Britain and France	60
Erik Bleich
4 The politicization of belonging: post-war legal developments in the administrative identities of non-nationals in France	76
Christine Barats-Malbré
5 Coming home? Ethnic Germans and the transformation of national identity in the Federal Republic of Germany	93
Daniel Levy
6 The perception of the 'other' and the integration of immigrants in Greece	109
Anastassia Tsoukala
7 Immigrants and the changing relations of trust between government and electorates: the effects of referenda in Switzerland	125
Silvia Kobi
8 The ethno-national mobilisation of Croat immigrants in Vienna: some problems with an undifferentiated notion of the politics of belonging	139
Sasa Bozic
9 The effects of the construction of Europe on national immigration and refugee policies: the case of Belgium	156
Marco Martiniello and Andrea Rea
10 The development of EU immigration policy: supranationalisation and the politics of belonging	176
Andrew Geddes
11 Is there such a thing as 'global belonging'? Transnational protest during the 'Rushdie Affair'	192
Amélie Blom
12 To belong or not to belong: the postnational question	209
Adrian Favell	