

Contents

Introduction	1
Mind and Geist	3
Elementary particles and conscious organisms	5
The decade of the brain	8
Can the mind be free in a brain scan?	14
The self as a USB stick	19
Neuromania and Darwinitis – the example of Fargo	22
Mind – brain – ideology	24
The cartography of self-interpretation	28
 1 What is at Stake in the Philosophy of Mind?	 31
Mind in the universe?	33
In the spirit of Hegel	35
The historical animal on the social stage	39
Why not everything, but at least something, is teleological	41
 2 Consciousness	 47
I see something that you do not see!	51
Neuronal thunderstorms and the arena of consciousness	56
Buddha, the snake and the bat – again	59
Surfing on the wave of neuro-Kantianism	61
Nothing is beyond our experience – or is it?	63
Faith, love, hope – are they all just illusions?	69
An altruist is lodged in every ego	75
Davidson's dog and Derrida's cat	79
Tasty consciousness	84
The intelligence of the robot vacuum cleaner	86
Strange Days – the noise of consciousness	90
What Mary still doesn't know	96
The discovery of the universe in a monastery	99

Sensations are not subtitles to a Chinese movie	102
God's-eye view	108
3 Self-Consciousness	110
How history can expand our consciousness	114
Monads in the mill	120
Bio is not always better than techno	124
How the clown attempted to get rid of omnipotence	127
Self-consciousness in a circle	132
4 Who or What is This Thing We Call the Self?	137
The reality of illusions	139
Puberty-reductionism and the toilet theory	141
Self is god	144
Fichte: the almost forgotten grandmaster of the self	149
The three pillars of the science of knowledge	152
In the human being nature opens her eyes and sees that she exists	158
"Let Daddy take care of this": Freud and Stromberg	161
Drives meet hard facts	166
Oedipus and the milk carton	170
5 Freedom	178
Can I will not to will what I will?	183
The self is not a one-armed bandit	187
Why cause and reason are not the same thing and what that has to do with tomato sauce	193
Friendly smites meanie and defeats metaphysical pessimism	199
Human dignity is inviolable	205
On the same level as God or nature?	208
PS: There are no savages	213
Man is not a face drawn in the sand	217
Notes	221
Index	233