

Table of contents

Contributors	VII
Abbreviations	VIII
Preface	IX
Acknowledgements	XI
PART I. The facts
Developmental schedules Manfred Pienemann	3
Learner variation Manfred Pienemann	12
PART II. The theory
The psycholinguistic basis of PT Manfred Pienemann	27
Explaining developmental schedules Manfred Pienemann	50
Explaining learner variation Mathias Liebner & Manfred Pienemann	64
L1 transfer Manfred Pienemann	75
Research methodology: How do we know about developmental schedules? Jörg-U. Kessler & Manfred Pienemann	84
PART III. Applying PT to other contexts
Japanese as a second language: A test case for the typological plausibility of PT Satomi Kawaguchi	99
Pidgins and creoles Ingo Plag	106

Bilingual first language acquisition	121
Yuki Itani-Adams
PART IV. Practical applications
Diagnosing L2 development: Rapid Profile	133
Jörg-U. Keßler & Mathias Liebner
Teaching	149
Jörg-U. Keßler, Mathias Liebner & Fethi Mansouri
References	157
Appendices	168
Name index	175
Subject index	177