

TABLE OF CONTENTS

PART I FRICTIONS

Chapter 1 'something urgent and human': beyond postmodernism, an introduction

13

- fiction in theory
- critical fiction
- lacking 'the human'
- self as narrative
- in practice: the case of Hal
- 'as if' reality
- the background of interpretation
- the contradiction, or: a double deconstruction
- narrative agency
- cultural and subjective pathology

Chapter 2 'being human' in fiction: a narrative psychological approach

51

- a turn to the human
- the 'psychological turn' and its aftereffects
- who is character?
- where is character? what is character? why is character?
- the fictional mind (or the reader's mind)
- narrative psychology
- the narrative self
- the 'what and how' of narrative self-construction
- the narrator
- symptoms
- conclusion: analyzing fictional self-narratives

Intermezzo: three manifestoes

101

PART II SYMPTOMS AND POSSIBLE SOLUTIONS

Chapter 3 Hal I.

121

- 'I cannot make myself understood'
- freedom-from versus freedom-to
- the absent Father, the 'ideal' Mother, and a child with no mind of his own
- a therapeutic culture
- irony and 'real stuff'

E Pluribus Unum or E Unibus Pluram?
 'this depression issue': the empty or anhedonic self
 'it', or: feeling(s) lost
 the self-help group (an irony-free zone)
 encaged figurants

Chapter 4 Dave E.

181

'I am the perfect amalgam'
 a blank canvas
 screening the self
 the new-model parent
 reconstructing 'normalcy'
 re: Generation X
 'It's like the '60's! Look! Look'
 shareware
 cannibalism, or: how to spread the message?

Chapter 5 Johnny T.

243

'I am not what I used to be'
 what's real or isn't real
 a Rorschach text (being black and being blue) presence
 the madmother in the attic
 follow the feeling: echolocation

PART III

CONCLUSIONS AND CONNECTIONS

Chapter 6 the post-postmodern syndrome

301

symptoms
 lack of decision making tools
 it hurts, I can't feel anything
 a structural need for a we

Appendix: A list of some of the characteristics of the post-postmodern novel (in an almost random order)

359

Bibliography

363

Index

377