

Contents

List of figures	viii
List of tables	x
Preface	xi
Introduction	1
Methodology	3
Notes	4
PART I
Post-communism transformation in Russia and Ukraine	7
1 Transformation	9
Command economy	9
Notes	14
2 Benchmarks	16
Notes	18
PART II
The former Soviet Union	19
3 Russia	21
Notes	25
4 The Kremlin strikes back	29
From malevolent to benevolent despotism	29
Authoritarian abandonment	30
Notes	34

5 Economic prospects

38

- Convergence and divergence* 38
- Systems, structure and capital flight* 39
- Reality check* 41
- Muscovy and the Washington Consensus* 42
- The treadmill of Muscovite reform* 42
- Structural militarization* 44
- Notes* 44

6 Ukraine

57

- Economic transformation* 58
- The new millennium* 62
- Current economic prospects* 66
- Notes* 67

PART III

Central Europe: the Visegrád Four

79

7 Waiting for change

81

- A short historical introduction* 82
- The political foundation of the Soviet-type system in Central Europe* 84
- The Soviet-type economic system in Central-Eastern Europe* 85
- Political and economic thaw* 90
- Reforms: the Hungarian New Economic Mechanism* 92
- Reforms: Poland and Czechoslovakia* 95
- The interplay of general rules and local circumstances* 98
- Outcomes of reforms and mounting problems: an assessment* 100
- Notes* 102

8 Central Europe on the eve of transformation

105

- The fading performance of Central-Eastern European economies* 106
- Systemic crisis and the last attempts at reforms* 108
- Economic and political legitimacy* 116
- Systemic collapse* 117
- Three countries* 119
- Notes* 122

9 The many facets of transformation	124
Starting conditions	124
The problems and issues on the eve of transformation	127
Systemic change and transformation strategy: general rules and principles and local circumstances	135
On the reasons for path dependence and the new elites	138
The Visegrád Group and European integration	142
Joining the common currency	145
Conclusions	147
Notes	149
10 Transformation at work	155
Transformation at work: Poland	158
Transformation at work: Hungary	165
Transformation at work: the Czech Republic and Slovakia	172
Conclusions	183
Notes	186
11 The crisis: from imported to home-made	189
The crisis in the United States	190
The crisis crosses the Atlantic	193
Common elements and divergent paths in the V4 economies	196
European convergence criteria	205
Unemployment and inequalities	220
Industrial and financial integration	224
Microeconomic features	227
Notes	235
12 Transformation and crisis in Central Europe: an assessment	240
The effect of EU membership	241
The features and effects of the international economic crisis	242
The financial situation	249
The present situation and perspectives	251
A comparative assessment	255
Notes	257
Conclusion: back to the future?	259
Bibliography	266
Index	289