

Contents

Table of Cases	xv
1. Power	1
Family practices and the diffusion of power	1
The open society	6
The welfarism thesis	8
The case of divorce	17
The new era: from family law to personal law?	21
2. Rights	30
Rights as a countervailing force to power	30
What are rights?	30
Human rights	40
Development of claims of rights in personal law	42
Children's rights and the 'best interests' (welfare) principle	54
Rights and values	63
3. Respect	64
What is respect?	64
Respect and the intimate	68
Care and nurture	77
Religion	84
Procreation	89
Respecting children	92
4. Friendship	94
Friendship and brotherly love	96
'Full' friendship as a paradigmatic value	97
Friendship and public constraints	100
Marriage and friendship compared	102
Friendship plus	106
Why consider friendship at all?	113

5. Responsibility	115
Historical responsibility	118
Prospective responsibility	121
A fuller concept of responsibility	138
6. Truth	144
Truth, kinship, and manipulation	146
Truth and identity	151
Truth and justice	159
Truth and shame	161
7. Community	164
The fear of individualism	164
Communities, power, and rights	168
Personal law and culture	173
Caring communities	178
Asserting rights	179
Diversion	186
Children	191
International issues	192
Communities, obligations, and law	193
Bibliography	195
Index	215