
Contents

| | |
|---|-----|
| Acknowledgements | vii |
| Author's preface: towards the somatic society | 1 |
| Introduction | 15 |

Part I Discovering bodies

| | |
|---|----|
| 1 The body question: recent developments in social theory | 31 |
| 2 The absent body in structuration theory | 67 |
| 3 Reflections on the epistemology of the hand | 99 |

Part II Medical sociology

| | |
|---|-----|
| 4 The interdisciplinary curriculum: from social medicine to postmodernism | 125 |
| 5 The body and medical sociology | 151 |

Part III Regimes of regulation

| | |
|--|-----|
| 6 The government of the body: medical regimens and the rationalization of diet | 177 |
| 7 The anatomy lesson: a note on the Merton thesis | 196 |
| 8 The talking disease: Hilda Bruch and anorexia nervosa | 214 |

| | |
|---|-----|
| Conclusion. Theory and epistemology of the body: an interview with Richard Fardon | 229 |
|---|-----|

| | |
|---|-----|
| Appendix: Bryan S. Turner's publications on the sociology of the body and medical sociology | 263 |
|---|-----|

| | |
|------------|-----|
| Name index | 266 |
|------------|-----|

| | |
|---------------|-----|
| Subject index | 272 |
|---------------|-----|