

Contents

List of figures	xiii
List of tables	xiv
List of contributors	xvi
Preface	xviii
1 Governments and legislative agenda setting: an introduction	1
GEORGE TSEBELIS AND BJØRN ERIK RASCH
2 Germany: limited government agenda control and strong minority rights	21
CHRISTOPH HÖNNIGE AND ULRICH SIEBERER
3 France: systematic institutional advantage of government in lawmaking	38
SYLVAIN BROUARD
4 Italy: government alternation and legislative agenda setting	53
FRANCESCO ZUCCHINI
5 United Kingdom: extreme institutional dominance by the executive ... most of the time	78
MADS H. QVORTRUP
6 Hungary: changing government advantages – challenging a dominant executive	95
GABRIELLA ILONSZKI AND KRISZTINA JÁGER
7 The Netherlands: legislative agenda setting and the politics of strategic lock-in	111
ARCO TIMMERMANS

8	Switzerland: agenda setting power of the government in a separation-of-powers framework	127
	DANIEL SCHWARZ, ANDRÉ BÄCHTIGER, AND GEORG LUTZ
9	Greece: government as the dominant player	145
	ARIS ALEXOPOULOS
10	Spain: majoritarian choices, disciplined party government and compliant legislature	164
	NATALIA AJENJO AND IGNACIO MOLINA
11	Portugal: limited government and the influential role of parliament	184
	EUGÉNIA DA CONCEIÇÃO-HELDT
12	Russia: the executive in a leading role	201
	IULIA SHEVCHENKO AND GRIGORII V. GOLOSOV
13	Denmark: agenda control and veto rights to opposition parties	222
	ROBERT KLEMMENSEN
14	Norway: institutionally weak governments and parliamentary voting on bills	234
	BJØRN ERIK RASCH
15	Japan: decades of partisan advantages impeding cabinet's agenda setting power	254
	SILKE KÖSTER-RIEMANN
16	Conclusion	270
	BJØRN ERIK RASCH AND GEORGE TSEBELIS
	Index	274