

5.4	Parviz Koohafkan and Mrs Lizhen Wu, a rice-fish farmer in Qingtian County, China, during a field visit in 2007.	59
5.5	Julie, a woman farmer in the ancient Ifugao rice terraces.	64

CONTENTS

5.6	Hani heritage festival – the biggest agricultural and cultural festival in the community – is a street banquet in Luchun Town.	69
6.1	signature Hani traditional food. It's a communal feast of thousands of people along the road with songs and dances by the different Hani ethnic groups.	69
6.1	Chiloé women farmers are very much connected to their traditional agriculture as the main source of food and livelihood.	74
6.2	Family farmers, smallholders and indigenous farming communities are at the heart of the GIAHS concept.	77
6.3	Diverse cropping system showing locally and globally important food biodiversity that is managed and conserved through indigenous practices of the Ifugao people, Kiangnan Province, Philippines.	80
6.4	Example of institutional setting of GIAHS management in China.	84
7.1	Tea for a healthy life, tea for culture: complementing the ancient tea culture with modern tea processing technology.	84
	List of figures	viii
	List of tables	xi
	List of abbreviations	xii
	Foreword, by José Graziano da Silva	xiv
	Foreword, by M. S. Swaminathan	xvi
	Preface, by Parviz Koohafkan	xix
	Acknowledgements	xxii
1	Past, present and future of agriculture	1
2	Agricultural heritage and sustainable food systems	10
3	A view to protecting and safeguarding our heritage	23
4	Globally Important Agricultural Heritage Systems: concept and the initiative	36
5	Dynamic conservation of GIAHS	52
6	Lessons learned, experiences and impacts	74
7	GIAHS are around us: sites and systems of interest	86
8	Final reflection and key messages	253
	Index	261