

CONTENTS

	Acknowledgments	ix
	Preface: A Researcher's Story	xiii
1	"Why aren't I being the hero?": THE POLITICS OF REPRODUCTIVE DIFFERENCE	1
2	"I think of myself as a product of the times": TROUBLING DEVELOPMENTS	24
3	"I must admit, I didn't freely admit it": EXPLAINING THE CHOICE	48
4	"She thought I was some kind of ogre that eats children for lunch": SYMBOLIC POLITICS I	71
5	"The thought, 'will I regret it when I'm old?' is impossible to avoid . . . because it's just out there": SYMBOLIC POLITICS II	89
6	"The contrast between their lives and your life puts a wedge between your friendship": THE SOCIAL WORLD OF CHILDLESS WOMEN	111
7	CONCLUSION	140
	Appendix: About the Research	152
	Notes	168
	Bibliography	186
	Index	196