

Table of contents

Foreword	9
A Historical review of VOC chart making*
I The first Dutch fleets to the East Indies	13
II A bird's-eye view of the Dutch East India Company (VOC)	45
III The cartography of the VOC in the early years	59
IV The key role by Hessel Gerritsz. (1617-1632)	65
V The Blaeu's: Mapmakers of the VOC in Amsterdam (1633-1705)	83
VI Cartographic activities in the East Indies in the seventeenth century	109
VII Isaak de Graaf as mapmaker in the service of the Amsterdam Chamber (1705-1743)	133
VIII The Van Keulen Company and the VOC	153
IX Cartographic activities in the East Indies in the eighteenth century	171
X Struggle against decline	183
XI Navigation: Navigare necesse est	189
XII Navigation equipment: Man is not lost	207
B Ad usum navigantium: Catalogue of VOC charts in manuscript on vellum
Introduction	231
On the survival of VOC charts	231
Significant compass roses	232
Explanatory notes for use with the Catalogue	238
Legends on charts	240
Chapters in the catalogue*	246
Chart descriptions per chapter	247
C References
Glossary of terms	683
List of chart makers in the Catalogue	691
List of institutions with VOC charts on vellum	693
Bibliography	694
Index of personal names	700
Index of ship's names (catalogue section only)	703
Index of place names	704
Curricula vitae	707