
CONTENTS

List of Maps	ix
Acknowledgements	x
Preface	xi
 Introduction: Nature and Landscape in German History	 I
 Chapter One: Conquests from Barbarism	 .
A Wilderness of Water and Marsh	21
The Lords and Masters of Nature	37
Colonists	46
Fields of Joy and Abundance	57
Paradise Lost?	64
 Chapter Two: The Man Who Tamed the Wild Rhine	 .
The Bells of Pfortz	71
Tulla's Plan	78
Remaking the Upper Rhine	86
Winners and Losers	96
 Chapter Three: Golden Age	 .
The Jade Bay	113
Colonizing the Moors	136
The Triumph of the Steamship	152
Further Victories over the Powers of Nature	164

Chapter Four: Dam-Building

In the Wonderland of Technology	179
Otto Intze: 'Grand Master' of German Dams	187
Flood Protection, Navigation and 'White Coal'	201
With Mastery of the Water Comes the Opportunity for Conflict	210
The Impact on Environment and Landscape	218
Drowned Villages, Broken Dams	226

Chapter Five: Race and Reclamation

A Grey-Dark Wilderness	239
Race, Reclamation and Genocide	249
Conservation and Conquest	266
The Mystique of the Frontier and the 'Wild East'	280
Indian Wars	290

Chapter Six: Landscape and Environment in the Post-war Germanys

The Garden of our Hearts: The 'Lost Lands' in the East	297
The 'Economic Miracle' and the Rise of Ecology	308
Implementing the Transformation of Nature in Germany	321

Epilogue: Where It All Began

List of Abbreviations	349
Notes	353
Bibliography	439
Index	481