

European Competition Law Review

2018 Volume 39 Issue 3
ISSN: 0144-3054

Table of Contents

Articles

MARIE DEMETRIOU QC

The future is a foreign country: they do things differently there – the impact of Brexit on the enforcement of competition law 99

This article explores the impact of Brexit on competition enforcement in light, in particular, of the differences in judicial approach between the UK and European Courts. It is the text of the Fifth Annual David Vaughan CBE QC lecture given on 9 November 2017.

STEFAN TSAKANAKIS

Post-compete clauses and other ancillary agreements in R&D agreements between startups and large companies: necessary or not? 107

The R&D BER confers block exemption to R&D agreements as well as ancillary agreements that are “directly related to and necessary” for their implementation. Determining whether a certain agreement is “necessary” is done on a case-by-case basis. This article discusses the conditions of various ancillary agreements to be considered “necessary” and argues that the threshold should generally be lower in co-operations between a startup and a large partner company.

DR SEBASTIAN JANKA AND SEVERIN
BENEDICT UHSLER

Antitrust 4.0 – The rise of Artificial Intelligence and emerging challenges to antitrust law 112

The ever-increasing use of Artificial Intelligence in the form of algorithms in the online world puts established antitrust rules on the test bench. In this context, the article explains scenarios in which antitrust law plays a role in dealing with algorithms, reflects on the current status of the ongoing legal discussion and scrutinises if and to what extent legal reforms are needed in order to keep antitrust law predictable, fair and effective.

KONRAD STOLARSKI

Bank account infrastructure as an indispensable means to provide financial services — the essential facilities doctrine revisited 124

The 13 January 2018 PSD2 transposition deadline was a symbolic milestone in the process of shaping the EU financial services market. As access to bank account infrastructure has been one of the key drivers for its introduction, this article considers the ramifications to bank–fintech relations.

PHILIPPE RUTTLEY

The Commission’s proposed new EU Regulation safeguarding competition in international aviation services 129

This article analyses the Commission’s proposed regulation to safeguard competition in aviation services, targeting third country airlines and unfair competitive practices in third countries adversely affecting EU airlines implemented by third country governments or agencies. The article sets the proposed EU regulation in its international trade law and WTO context.

Book Reviews

DR BRUCE WARDHAUGH

EU Competition Law Handbook 2017 147

National Reports

Greece

ANTI-COMPETITIVE AGREEMENT

Construction sector N-29

Poland

MERGER

Merger N-30

Poland

PROCEDURE

New legislation N-31

Portugal

GENERAL

MoU N-31

Sweden

PROCEDURE

Swedish Lottery N-32

Sweden

PROCEDURE

Insurance sector N-33

Turkey

ANTI-COMPETITIVE PRACTICES

Fruit and vegetables N-33