

CONTENTS

Foreword	5
Introduction	7
1. Pre-state society and periodization of state structures	9
2. Feudal state and law	12
2.1 Early feudal monarchy	12
2.1.1 Great Moravian Empire	12
2.1.1.1 Central administration of the state	13
2.1.1.2 Organisation of local administration	14
2.1.1.3 Law and sources of law	14
2.1.2 Hungarian State (1000-1200)	15
2.1.2.1 Central administration of the state	15
2.1.2.2 Organisation of local administration	16
2.1.2.3 Law and sources of law	16
2.2 Monarchy of feudal fragmentation	17
2.2.1 Central administration of the state	18
2.2.2 Organisation of local administration	19
2.2.3 Law and sources of law	20
2.3 Estates' Monarchy	21
2.3.1 Central administration of the state	22
2.3.2 Organisation of local administration	23
2.3.3 Law and sources of law	24
2.4 Absolutist Monarchy	26
2.4.1 Central administration of the state	31
2.4.2 Organisation of local administration	32
2.4.3 Law and sources of law	33
3. Sources of Hungarian feudal law	35
3.1 Customary law	35
3.2 Written law	37
3.3 Judicial decisions	38
3.4 Royal decrees	39
3.5 Privilege	40
3.6 Statute	40
4. Fundamental institutes of Hungarian feudal law	42
4.1 Persons	43
4.1.1 Natural persons	43
4.1.2 Protection of personality rights	50
4.1.3 Juristic persons	52
4.2 Things	52

5. Selected areas of Hungarian feudal law and their fundamental institutes	54
5.1 Family law	54
5.1.1 Marital personal law	55
5.1.2 Marital property law	57
5.1.3 Relationships between parents and children	59
5.2 Rights in things (property rights)	61
5.2.1 Ownership right and protection of ownership right	63
5.2.2 Substantive rights in another's property	64
5.2.3 Possession	66
5.2.4 Keeping records of real properties	67
5.3 Inheritance law	67
5.3.1 Noble law of inheritance	67
5.3.2 Urban law of inheritance	69
5.3.3 Liege law of inheritance	69
5.4 Law of contract	70
5.4.1 Labour law	73
5.4.2 Commercial law	74
5.4.3 Law of bill of exchange	75
5.5 Procedural law	75
5.6 Penal law	78
Conclusion	81
Select Bibliography	82
Select name and subject index	85
About the authors	93