

I Rhythmic Forces of Life

1—Silent Revolutions in Ornament: The Search for a New Visual Language at the Turn of the 20th Century /18/

Applied Drawing and Ornamental Composition at the End of the 19th Century: the Elementarism of Modern Design /19/ The Minimum Image. Nature, the Scientific Diagram and Ornament. Stylisation, the Constructive Principle and Abstraction /22/ The Abstract Line. Vitalism, the Growth of Plants and Rhythmic Forces. Ornament As a Universal Image of the Dynamics of Life /42/ Kunstwollen. Inner Sight, Memory Image and Imagination. Free Ornament and the "New Language" /49/ Ornament, Corporeality and the Notation of Movement. Kinaesthetic Perception /53/ Abstraction in a Kaleidoscope. "Lacerated" Visuality and Ornament /62/ The Turning Point's Effect? /67/

2—Lost Lizards: Ornamental Arabesque As an Impression of Movement /68/

3—Fluid Lines: The Expressivity of Lightning, the Semantics of the Line and Ornament /72/

II Ornamental Instruction and Experiments with Vision

1—Vulcan's Engagement to Venus: Alois Studnička's Venture into Applied Art and Ornamental Instruction in the Bohemian Lands /76/

Alois Studnička – Pioneer in Applied Arts and Crafts /76/ The Czech Industrial Museum, Curator Alois Studnička and the "Heterotopia" of the Collection /82/ Instruction at Schools of Applied Arts and Crafts and Studnička's Teaching Mission in Jaroměř /84/ Studnička's Theory of Ornament: Drill and Creativity /90/

2—Sunlight and Optical Illusions: František Kupka's Abstraction in Reference to His Teacher Alois Studnička's Theory of Ornament /96/

A Digression: Studnička's Role and His Legendary Status in Kupka's Autobiography /98/ Physiological Optics: Observing Rainbows and the Sensory Effects of Colours /99/ Kupka's Ornament: A Cosmic Eye? /105/

3—The Ornament of Butterfly Wings: Ernst Hans Gombrich, Decorative Art, the Natural Sciences and Gestalt Psychology /108/

Unity in Diversity: Order and Complexity /109/ Ornament, Nature and Science /111/ Subversive Patterns on Butterfly Wings and Camouflage: The Sense of Disorder /116/ Decorative Art and Gestalt Psychology: Theories of Vision /123/

III Spirit and Matter

1—Fantastical Ornament and the Free School: Emanuel Pelant's Artistic Experimentation and Avant-garde Teaching /128/

A Digression: Camille Mauclair on Decorativism and the Artist's Role in Society /128/ Emanuel Pelant, the Function of Ornament and Instruction in Decorative Drawing. "Concocted", Geometric and National Ornament /131/ Franz Čížek, Emanuel Pelant and the Philosophy of Teaching Ornamental Drawing. The Evolution of Childhood Creativity and the Biogenetic Law. From Primitive Ornaments to Free Expression /135/ Movement and Rhythm /152/ Pelant's Free School /152/

2__Handicraft As Spiritual Regeneration: The Idealism of Marie Teinitzerová /158/

The Harmony of Physical Work and Contemplation: The Ideological Inception of Community Workshops /159/ Ornament As the Spiritualisation of Matter. Creative Force and the Revival of Primary Art Forms. Abstract Ornament /162/ Simple Ornament: from Folk to Modernism /172/ Art in Life, Life in Art: Old School Communism and the Avant-garde /175/

3__Hilde Pollak and the Anthroposophical Style in Applied Art: Organic Ornament /176/

4__Crystalline Ornament: The Oblique Surfaces and Sharp Edges of Pavel Janák /182/

Nature's Secret Script: From Romantic Prototypes to Cézanne /184/ Microstructures of Crystals as Ornamental Forms /186/ The Ideal Morphology of Crystals: Pavel Janák and Mineralogist Karel Vrba Crystal Geometry As a Symbol of the Universe /197/ Crystalline Beauty and Abstraction /198/

5__Ornament as Structure: The Art Form of Cubist Architecture and the Role of Henry van de Velde /200/

Hermann Muthesius versus Henry van de Velde. Julius Meier-Graefe and the Periodical Dekorative Kunst. Painterly and Ornamental Concept. Linear Ornament and Space /200/ Architecture, Art Form and Reviving Matter. "Ornamentised Structure" /204/

IV Anti-ornament?

1__The Stylised Lotus of Adolf Loos: Back to the Architect's Understanding of Ornament /218/

Did Loos View Ornament As a Crime? Shifts in Interpretations /218/ Ornament's Dual Concept. Ornament as an Articulation of Space /223/ The Rhythm Within. Raumkunst, Raumplan and Spielraum ("...hinauf, hinunter, u.s.w.") /225/ Picturesque Modernism /225/

2__Ornament As a Microcosm: Le Corbusier's Confession /230/

3__Modernist Forbidding of Ornament and Its Second Life: "Ornament is coquetry, smoothness is truth" /236/

The Genesis of Modernist Opposition to Ornament. The Polemics and Defence of Gustav E. Pazaurek /237/ Czech Modernism and Anti-ornament /239/ Modernist Ornament – A Peculiar Druse? Art Deco and Its Attractive Incongruity /241/ The New Avant-garde's Fantasy? "An Antenna Tower Shaped Like an Orchid" /248/

Conclusion: The Modernist with Studnička in His Bag /251/

Notes /252/

Sources used and a select bibliography /274/

Editor's note /278/

Zusammenfassung /279/

Resumé /281/

Index /283/

