

Contents

Articles:

- Antonella Cagnolati
“Not too Little to go to Hell”: Literary Representations of Childhood in Seventeenth Century England 1
- Petr Chalupský
You Only Have to Wish High Enough – Gifts in Hanif Kureishi’s Gabriel’s Gift 13
- Robert Kusek
Arguing for that Unheard. In Search of Friday in J.M. Coetzee’s Foe 25
- Ewa Rychter
The Fall(ing) Made Gentler: Nostalgia and Christianity in Julian Barnes’s England, England 47
- Daniel Sampey
The Playing of O’Neill’s Misbegotten 64
- Petra Smažilová
G. M. Hopkins’ “The Windhover” as an Ambiguous Symbol 81
- Vít Vaniček
Expanding the Kingdom of Death: Paradigms of Perception and Space in Works of Thomas Pynchon 89
- Klára Matuchová
A Remark on Social Semiotic Value of Personal Names in Selected Fiction Samples 101
- Student section:
- Magdaléna Klečková
The Magic of the Word 125

Book Reviews:

- | | |
|--|------------|
| Cult Fiction and Cult Film: Multiple Perspectives | 141 |
| Christopher Koy | |
| Reclaiming an Undervalued Writer | 145 |
| Šárka Bubíková | |
| News, Calls, Announcements | 147 |