

Contents

Table of Cases	xv
Table of Legislation	xxi
List of Abbreviations	xxv
1. Sport is Special	1
2. Three Strategies for Defending ‘Sporting Autonomy’	8
2.1 Protecting Sporting Autonomy: the Contractual, Legislative, and Interpretative Routes	8
2.2 The Contractual Solution	10
2.2.1 Protecting arbitration	10
2.2.2 The CAS	13
2.2.3 How immune is the lex sportiva from ‘ordinary’ law?	16
2.2.4 Recognition and enforcement of CAS rulings as Swiss arbitral awards	19
2.2.5 The normative case for and against the lex sportiva as expressed through contract/CAS	25
2.2.6 The limits of the CAS’s umbrella: at EU level	28
2.2.7 The limits of the CAS’s umbrella: before national courts in the EU	29
2.2.8 The practice of sanctions	35
2.2.9 Conclusion—the limits of the contractual solution as a means to protect sporting autonomy	36
2.3 The Legislative Solution	37
2.3.1 Hosting the World Cup and the Olympic Games	37
2.3.2 Ticket ‘touting’	39
2.3.3 Ambush marketing	40
2.3.4 Not hosting the World Cup or the Olympic Games	44
2.3.5 Conclusion—the limits of the legislative solution as a means to protect sporting autonomy	46
2.4 The Adjudicative or Interpretative Solution	47
3. The Framework and the Challenges of an EU Law and Policy on Sport	50
3.1 Introduction	50
3.2 ‘Competence’ as a Constitutionally Foundational Issue in the EU	52
3.3 The Framework of EU Law and Policy and How It Applies to Sport	57
3.4 Negative Law—Free Movement and Competition	57
3.5 Positive Law—the Competence Conferred by Article 165 TFEU	64
3.6 An EU Law and Policy on Sport?	67
4. Sport in the Internal Market: Free Movement Law	71
4.1 Introduction	71
4.2 The First Step: Walrave and Koch	73

4.3	Bosman Changed Everything	78
4.4	Bosman —the Structure of the Ruling: the Limits of Sporting Autonomy under EU Law	84
4.5	No Absolute Autonomy for Sport under EU Law ...	85
4.6	... but a Conditional Autonomy for Sport under EU Law	91
4.7	Failing to Justify the Transfer System	93
4.8	Failing to Justify Nationality Discrimination in Club Football	94
4.9	Bosman —the Aftermath	97
4.10	Beyond Bosman	100
5.	Sport in the Internal Market: Competition Law	104
5.1	Competition Law	104
5.2	ENIC/UEFA	105
5.3	Meca-Medina and Majcen v Commission	109
5.3.1	The importance of Meca-Medina	110
5.3.2	The path to litigation	110
5.3.3	The ruling of the CFI	111
5.3.4	On appeal, the Court of Justice	112
5.4	The Significance of Meca-Medina	116
5.5	How Meca-Medina Has Come to Frame the Debate about EU Sports Law	120
5.6	Conclusion	123
6.	The EU's Legislative Competence in the Field of Sport	125
6.1	Introduction	125
6.2	The Amsterdam Declaration	127
6.3	The Nice Declaration	129
6.4	The Helsinki Report	131
6.5	The 2007 White Paper	135
6.6	The Road to Article 165 TFEU: Abandoning the Dream of Absolute Exclusion for Sport	141
6.7	From the Convention on the Future of Europe via the Failure of the Treaty Establishing a Constitution to the Lisbon Treaty	142
6.8	Sport at the Convention on the Future of Europe and Beyond	144
6.9	The Treaty of Lisbon	147
6.10	Lisbon—How Much Changed?	148
6.11	Article 165 in Legislative and Policy-making Practice	150
6.12	Article 165 as a Means to Frame the Debate	153
6.13	Conclusion	155
7.	The Specific Nature of Sport: An Integrated Account of the Law of Conditional Autonomy	157
7.1	Introduction	157
7.2	Article 165 TFEU and Internal Market Law	158
7.3	The Convergence of Free Movement and Competition Law in Application to Sport: the Integrated Law of the Internal Market	162

7.4 A Sporting Margin of Appreciation	165
7.5 Using Article 165 to Frame the EU's Contribution	169
7.6 Conclusion	174
8. Rules Based on Nationality	176
8.1 Introduction	176
8.2 International Sport	176
8.3 Club Sport	177
8.4 The Immediate Aftermath of Bosman	179
8.5 How Has This Assessment of the Limits of Respect for the Lex Sportiva View Been Reached in EU Law?	181
8.6 The Court in Error	182
8.7 Sport is Not Just Football! The Case of Cricket, and of Rugby	185
8.8 The Incentives to Seek a Reformed System That Would be Tied to the Origins of Players	190
8.9 Rules Based (Directly or Indirectly) on Nationality: 'Quotas' in Club Football	192
8.10 Home-grown Rules	195
8.11 Eligibility for a National Team—Changing Country	200
8.12 Equal Treatment of Non-nationals in National Championship	202
8.13 Conclusion	203
9. The Transfer System	205
9.1 The Transfer System—Collective Plus Individual	205
9.2 The Rationales for and the History of the Transfer System	206
9.3 Challenging the Transfer System: George Eastham	208
9.4 Challenging the Transfer System: Jean-Marc Bosman	210
9.5 The Legal and Economic Implications of the Bosman Ruling: Contract Negotiation and 'Player Power'	212
9.6 Olivier Bernard: Confirming the Favourable Approach in Principle of EU Law to the Transfer System	215
9.7 Beyond Bosman	221
9.8 The Renovated System	223
9.8.1 Eventual agreement	224
9.8.2 International transfers	226
9.8.3 Minors	226
9.8.4 Contractual stability and its limits	227
9.9 CAS: the Operation of the Transfer System	229
9.10 The Compatibility of the Renovated System with EU Law	234
9.11 Competitive Balance and Equality between Clubs	235
9.12 Sport as a Special Case in Youth Training	238
9.13 So What is Left ...?	240
9.14 Concluding Comments	244
10. The Influence of EU Law on Sports Governance	245
10.1 Introduction	245

10.2 The Political and Policy Background	246
10.3 The Court of Justice: Meca-Medina	248
10.4 The Court of Justice: MOTOE	250
10.5 MOTOE and Review of Sports Governance	254
10.6 Multiple Ownership of Clubs	258
10.7 Rules on Player Release	259
10.7.1 The rules	259
10.7.2 The litigation	261
10.7.3 The settlement of the litigation	262
10.7.4 How would the litigation have been resolved, had the Court been allowed the opportunity to rule on it?	266
10.8 Club Relocation	268
10.9 Financial Fair Play	270
10.10 Third Party Ownership	279
10.11 Breakaway Leagues	282
10.12 Good Governance	283
10.13 Conclusion	285
11. Broadcasting	288
11.1 Introduction	288
11.2 The Law, Economics, and Technology of the Broadcasting Sector	290
11.3 Property Rights Associated with the Sale of Rights to Broadcast Sports Events	298
11.4 The Sale of Exclusive Rights	300
11.4.1 The scope of Article 101(1) TFEU	300
11.4.2 Exemption	302
11.4.3 Application to sport: defining markets	305
11.5 Collective Selling of Rights to Broadcast Matches	313
11.6 Champions League —Application to Collective Selling at National Level	318
11.7 Collective Selling—an Unresolved Question about the Place of ‘Solidarity’	323
11.8 Territorial Exclusivity	326
11.8.1 The dispute	327
11.8.2 Free movement law—a restriction on inter-state trade	328
11.8.3 Free movement—justifying the restrictions	330
11.8.4 Competition law	334
11.8.5 Copyright law: public houses and private consumers	334
11.8.6 Reacting to the judgment in Karen Murphy	335
11.8.7 Concluding comments	336
11.9 Sporting Jewels: ‘Protected’ or ‘Listed’ Events	338
11.9.1 The legislative framework	338
11.9.2 The rules: defining the listed or the protected event	340
11.9.3 What is the obligation imposed on the listing state?	342
11.9.4 What is the obligation imposed on states other than the listing state?	343

Contents

xiii

11.9.5 Short news reports	345
11.9.6 The nature and purpose of the regime	346
11.9.7 Litigating the legislative regime: listed or protected events	349
11.10 Conclusion	354
12. The Principles of EU Sports Law	356
 Index	 363