

Contents

Preface	vi
Acknowledgements	xi
1 British influence, the evolution of the Panzer arm, and the rise of Blitzkrieg	1
2 Technology, national policy, ideology, and strategic doctrine between the world wars	45
3 Isolationism, appeasement, containment, limited war: the democracies' strategic policy from the modern to the 'postmodern' era	59
4 The 'Revolution in Military Affairs' (RMA) compared with earlier military-technological revolutions of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries	68
5 Female participation in war: bio-cultural interactions	79
6 Is democracy genocidal?	89
7 Why counterinsurgency fails	95
8 The return of the authoritarian-capitalist great powers: is the democratic victory preordained?	109
9 A compass to the Arab Upheaval: what can nineteenth century Europe teach?	122
10 The Modernization Peace and twenty-first century conflict	131
Index	173