Contents

Preface to the New Edition ix
Preface to the First Edition xiii

1	Please	Don't	Feed	the	Bugbears	1
---	--------	-------	------	-----	----------	---

- 1 The Perennial, Gripping Problem 1
- 2 The Bogeymen 7
- 3 Sphexishness and Other Worries 11
- 4 Overview 18

2 Making Reason Practical 23

- 1 Where Do Reasons Come From? 23
- Semantic Engines, Perpetual Motion Machines, and a Defective
 Intuition Pump 30
- 3 Reflection, Language, and Consciousness 38
- 4 Community, Communication, and Transcendence 48

3 Control and Self-Control 55

- 1 "Due to Circumstances Beyond Our Control" 55
- 2 Simple Control and Simple Self-Control 57
- 3 Agentless Control and Our Concept of Causation 62
- 4 Agents in Competition 67
- 5 The Uses of Disorder 73
- 6 "Let Yourself Go" 76

4 Self-Made Selves 81

- 1 The Problem of the Disappearing Self 81
- 2 The Art of Self-Definition 88
- 3 Trying Our Luck 100
- 4 Overview 108

5	Acting	Under	the	Idea	of	Freedom	111
2	Acting	under	tne	idea	OI	Freedom

- 1 How Can You Go On Deliberating at a Time Like This? 111
- 2 Designing the Perfect Deliberator 118
- 3 Real Opportunities 126
- 4 "Avoid," "Avoidable," "Inevitable" 134

6 "Could Have Done Otherwise" 143

- 1 Do We Care Whether We Could Have Done Otherwise? 143
- 2 What We Care About 152
- 3 The Can of Worms 157

7 Why Do We Want Free Will? 167

- 1 Nihilism Neglected 167
- 2 Diminished Responsibility and the Specter of Creeping Exculpation 171
- 3 The Dread Secret Denied 181

Afterword: Erasmus: Sometimes a Spin Doctor Is Right 189

Bibliography 207

Index 219