

Contents

Preface to the Second Edition	vii
Acknowledgements	xi
1 Introduction	1
2 The Roots of Urban Sociology	7
2.1 The development of urban sociology 1900–30	8
2.2 The decline of urban sociology: towards the 1990s	22
2.3 Urban sociology and beyond: the new millennium	31
2.4 Conclusion	34
3 Cities and Uneven Economic Development	37
3.1 Limits to evolutionary theories of cities	38
3.2 Competing explanations of uneven development	44
3.3 Conclusion	67
4 Inequality and Social Organisation in the City	70
4.1 Urban space and segregation	71
4.2 Ghettoisation	74
4.3 Suburbanisation and gentrification	82
4.4 Changing inequalities? Polarisation, exclusion and survival strategies	96
4.5 Conclusion	104
5 Perspectives on Urban Culture	106
5.1 Louis Wirth and the ‘urban way of life’	107
5.2 Simmel and metropolitan culture	122
5.3 The culture of modernity	127
5.4 Conclusion	133

6	Urban Culture and the Regeneration of Urban Meaning	135
6.1	Urban meaning	135
6.2	Urban meaning and the power of 'aura'	140
6.3	Globalisation and urban meaning	146
6.4	Conclusion	151
7	Urban Politics	153
7.1	States, markets, welfare and workfare	160
7.2	Local states and economic development	169
7.3	Place, political identification and urban participation	185
7.4	Conclusion	196
8	Conclusion: Urban Sociology, Capitalism and Modernity	198
	Bibliography	205
	Index	225