

Contents

Preface	ix
The Authors	xiii
1. Introduction	1
2. Methods for Determining Cognitive Processes and Questionnaire Problems	15
3. Answering a Survey Question: Cognitive and Communicative Processes	55
4. Psychological Sources of Context Effects in Survey Measurement	80
5. The Direction of Context Effects: What Determines Assimilation or Contrast in Attitude Measurement?	100
6. Order Effects Within a Question: Presenting Categorical Response Alternatives	130
7. Autobiographical Memory	163
8. Event Dating	185
9. Counting and Estimation	197

10. Proxy Reporting	227
11. Implications for Questionnaire Design and the Conceptualization of the Survey Interview	244
References	269
Name Index	295
Subject Index	301