

CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION by Harrison E. Salisbury	page 7
Prologue	13

PART ONE

RED SQUARE	27
Eye-Witness Account of the Demonstration	27
What I Remember of the Demonstration	31
The Account of Tania Baeva, the Eighth Participant in the Demonstration	36

PART TWO

THE CASE: VIOLATION OF PUBLIC ORDER	42
In the 'Half-Rouble'	42
The Searches	48
Preliminary Examination	51
The Letter	54
The Investigation	56
Psychiatric Examination	66
End of the Investigation	69
Who Is Being Tried and For What?	71

PART THREE

THE UNJUST JUDGE	75
In the Moscow City Court	75
A Letter to the Authorities	75
A Tale Told Anonymously	76
Session of the Moscow City Court	78

Indictment	84
Examination of the Accused	90
Examination of Witnesses	121
Supplementary Questions to the Accused	167
Prosecutor V. E. Drel's Speech	171
Speeches for the Defence	180
Final Pleas of the Accused	212
Sentence	224
Extracts about the Trial from the Chronicle of Current Events	229
The Soviet Press and the Demonstrators' Trial	232
Before the Closed Doors of the Open Court	237
A Few More Words about the Trial	253
After the Cassation Hearing	257

PART FOUR

THE FATE OF VICTOR FEINBERG	265
The Fate of Dissenters Pronounced Mentally Ill	268
Concerning Special Psychiatric Hospitals	270
EPILOGUE	280
Anatoli Yakobson's Letter	283
NOTES	286