

CONTENTS

- Introduction: Stuck in PowerPoint Hell? 1
The path out of PowerPoint Hell is paved with good practices and goes straight through the world of performance.
- Sin #1: Failure to Understand Your Audience 7
It's not about you. Six questions to ask before you plan your speech.
- Sin #2: A Flat Opening 15
Don't blow your one and only chance to make a good first impression. Eight ways to start strong and six mistakes that will stop you in your tracks.
- Sin #3: Lack of Focus 25
If you try to say everything, you end up communicating nothing. How to avoid rambling and meandering and droning on and on and on...
- Sin #4: Bad Storytelling 35
Nothing beats a well-told story. How to find, shape, and tell stories that command attention.
- Sin #5: No Emotional Pull 43
If you want to change their minds, you have to win their hearts. Three steps for tapping into the power of emotion.

Sin #6: Dull, Ugly Visuals	53
Life is a visual medium. Eight tips for creating a picture-perfect presentation.
Sin #7: Low-Energy Delivery	61
If you're checked out, your audience will tune out. Eight ways to amp up the energy.
Sin #8: No Audience Interaction	69
What distinguishes a presentation from other communications is having a live, in-person audience to interact with. So make them a partner in the story you're telling.
Sin #9: Buying Into Body Language Myths	77
Forget everything you've heard about body language, and focus on the things that matter.
Sin #10: Inadequate Rehearsal	85
If you're not going to take this seriously, why should your audience? How to practice for the big day and five tips for making the most of rehearsal time.
Sin #11: A Weak Finish	95
Go out on a high note. Seven ways to finish strong and five more things to do when you're done.
Conclusion: Are We Redeemed Yet?	103
Go forth and sin no more. But wait! Here are seven other sins to avoid.	