
CONTENTS

List of maps	page x
Preface	xi
Acknowledgements	xiv
Introduction	1
1 1170–1215: decisive and purposive origins	6
2 The thirteenth century: the need to adapt	26
3 The fourteenth century: the challenge of believing differently	40
4 The fifteenth century: the risks of longevity	60
5 The constraints of a life in hiding	87
6 The need to organise	110
7 A culture of their own: the written and the spoken word	143
8 The sixteenth century: the end as a way forward?	161
9 Epilogue: the Waldensian Church	189
Conclusion	215
Bibliography	225
Index	229