

CONTENTS

Preface	9
----------------	---

HOW TO BE AN ALIEN

Preface to the 24th Impression	13
---------------------------------------	----

Preface	17
----------------	----

I. How to be a General Alien

A Warning to Beginners	20
-------------------------------	----

Introduction	23
---------------------	----

The Weather	26
--------------------	----

Soul and Understatement	30
--------------------------------	----

Tea	32
------------	----

Sex	35
------------	----

A Word on Some Publishers	36
----------------------------------	----

The Language	37
---------------------	----

How Not to be Clever	42
-----------------------------	----

How to be Rude	45
-----------------------	----

How to Compromise	48
--------------------------	----

How to be a Hypocrite	51
------------------------------	----

About Simple Joys	52
--------------------------	----

The National Passion	54
-----------------------------	----

Three Small Points	56
---------------------------	----

II. How to be a Particular Alien

A Bloomsbury Intellectual	58
----------------------------------	----

Mayfair Playboy	64
------------------------	----

How to be a Film Producer	66
----------------------------------	----

Driving Cars	72
---------------------	----

Three Games for Bus Drivers	76
------------------------------------	----

How to Plan a Town	78
Civil Servant	84
Journalism	88
If Naturalized	92

HOW TO BE INIMITABLE

Coming of Age	97
----------------------	----

I. New English

How to be Prosperous	101
On Trying to Remain Poor	104
How to be Class Conscious	108
The New Ruling Class	112
How to Avoid Travelling	115
On Wine Snobbery	119
On Shopping	124
How to Save the World	126
How to be Free	131
In Praise of Television	133
On the Art of Conversation	139
On Advertisements	141
On Politics	143
How to Stop Road Traffic	147

II. Old English

How to Take Your Pleasure Sadly	155
On Not Knowing English	158
On Not Knowing Foreign Languages	161
On Not Knowing Anything	163
On the Decline of Muddle	165
How to Die	168
On Being Unfair	170

On Minding One's Own Business	182
Sex	174
How to Avoid Work	175
Everybody is Hungarian	177

HOW TO BE DECADENT

For Some Time There'll be an England . . .	185
On the Elegance of Decay	187
Old and New	192
Language	196
Food	199
Drinks	205
Shopping	208
Sex	212
On Cat-Worship	216
On How Not to be Reserved	221
On the National Passion	223
On Not Complaining	227
Bank Holidays	229
Buses	232
How to Get Lost in London	233
How to Panic Quietly	236
On Fiddling Through	241
The Generation Gap	243
Is the Economy Really on the Mend?	245
How to Lose an Empire	248
How to Become a Colony	255
On Ceasing to be an Island	269
Envoi	261
 A Letter from André Deutsch	 264